

PAY AT ONCE
If this is marked with a blue pencil it shows that your subscription is due (or will be at the end of this month) and must be paid at once or your Avalanche will be stopped.

Crawford Avalanche

JUSTICE AND RIGHT

VOLUME XLIV

GRAYLING, MICHIGAN, JUNE 15, 1922

NUMBER 24

CLASS OF 1922 GRADUATES

CLASS DAY EXERCISES HELD WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Class of 1922 presented their class day program Wednesday night before a large audience of interested citizens and friends. The exercises were held in the school auditorium, as usual, and very few seats were not occupied.

The high school orchestra, which has so generously and so well rendered service for school and other public functions during the past year, played the program for the purpose of delivering their graduating essays. The program was carried out just as presented in the Avalanche last week, except that invocation and benediction were given by Rev. Doty instead of Rev. Fr. Bosler, who was absent from the city.

It was a fine looking class, as they appeared seated in a semi-circle upon the platform; eight young ladies—Beatrice Austin, Hester Hanson, Ida Walden, Vella Hermann, Agnes Walden, Anna Ruresky, Ruth Taylor, and Ruth McCullough, and at the ends of the row was one of the two young men of the class—Earl Nelson and Oscar Taylor.

It seemed to be the general impression that the essays were unusually interesting. The members of the class seemed to have the happy faculty of saying much in a few words, and made the program a pleasure to listen to. Each was well applauded for their efforts. A keen appreciation was manifested by them for the generosity of the citizens and their parents in providing the means of an education, and gratitude was extended to the school board and the faculty for their assistance.

We feel certain that we speak the general sentiment of the community when we say that this class has had an honorable school career. The members have been congenial and friendly in their social affairs, industrious in their school work, and in public have proven themselves real ladies and gentlemen. The members of the class of 1922 would be a credit to any community and we are sure in the future each is going to represent the old home town in a manner that is fitting and is an honor to themselves.

The class of 1922 has been thrifty as well as industrious and have left the nice sum of $50.00 which they in their class work, left the school board to be used for the purpose of purchasing a curtain for the stage, an article that is so greatly needed. This is surely generous of the members of the class and is an unselfish act that is deserving of special credit, and we trust that when the curtain is purchased there may be some mark of credit to the class of 1922 placed thereon.

Tonight will be commencement and Prof. Woody of the University of Michigan will present the commencement address. Interest and pleasure will be added to this by several musical numbers. Dr. Keyport, a member of the school board, will present the diplomas. 8:00 o'clock is the time and a good attendance should be there to hear the program and to pay final honors to our class of graduates.

MICHELSON MEMORIAL CHURCH NOTES.

There will be the usual morning service at the Michelson church next Sunday. All are invited to attend. The Odd Fellow Memorial service will be held in the afternoon at twenty.

There will be no evening service.

SCHOOL MILK FUND REPORT.

General improvement in milk: this Given under nursing—committees of the Red Cross.

December—319 children weighed. 74 were 10% or more underweight.

April—408 children weighed. 32 were 10% or more underweight.

Of the last 32, 9 had taken milk in school and gained as follows:

1 gained from 16% underweight to 14%.

1 gained from 15% underweight to 13%.

1 gained from 17% underweight to 13%.

1 gained from 22% underweight to 20%.

1 gained from 19% underweight to 16%.

1 gained from 11% underweight to 17%.

1 gained from 19% underweight to 17%.

1 gained from 15% underweight to 12%.

1 gained from 10% underweight to 13%.

General gain of 319 weighed in December.

April—272 gained 1 pound or more.

Of 272—109 gained 3 pounds or more.

Donations.

Jan. 11—Mrs. Chris Johnson $ 1.25

Jan. 12—Goodfellowship Club and Womens Club..... 15.80

Jan. 13—Womens Club..... 10.00

Jan. 13—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 4.97

Jan. 13—Mrs. E. Matson..... 1.00

Jan. 17—Mrs. E. Matson..... 1.25

Jan. 17—Mrs. E. Matson..... 1.25

Jan. 17—Mrs. E. Matson..... 5.00

Jan. 18—Mrs. H. E. Simpson..... 1.25

Jan. 20—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 3.75

Jan. 20—School children do nation to fund..... 11.65

Jan. 20—Mrs. J. K. Hanson..... 1.25

Jan. 27—Teachers donation..... .70

Jan. 27—Mr. B. E. Smith..... 1.25

Jan. 27—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 8.18

Jan. 28—Mrs. Grant Stoner..... 2.50

Jan. 30—Margaret Hemming son..... 2.50

Jan. 30—P. C. Galsman sale of Xmas seals..... 25.00

Feb. 3—Mrs. Geo. Smith..... 1.00

Feb. 3—Mrs. C. E. Doty..... 1.00

Feb. 7—Mrs. J. K. Hanson..... 1.00

Feb. 8—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 8.32

Feb. 9—Mrs. R. Hanson..... 5.00

Feb. 10—Helen Saneartier..... 1.50

Feb. 11—Proceeds from card party given by Goodfellowship and Womens Clubs..... 52.60

Feb. 15—Mrs. J. K. Hanson..... 1.25

Feb. 15—Mrs. O. P. Schumann..... 3.00

Feb. 20—Tag day..... 92.76

Feb. 20—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 14.89

Feb. 24—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 3.25

Feb. 24—Hospital Aid sale of sandwiches..... 3.00

Mar. 1—Mrs. Chris Johnson..... 1.25

Mar. 10—Mrs. H. E. Simpson..... 1.25

Mar. 10—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 3.71

Mar. 16—Helen Saneartier..... 1.25

Mar. 23—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 11.80

Jan. 16—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 7.54

May 2—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 9.15

May 9—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 4.40

May 11—Money rec'd from children taking milk..... 2.00

May 15—Sandwich sale..... 5.50

Expenditures.

June 17—Mrs. H. E. Simpson book..... .75

Jan. 21—H. Schrieber milk..... 20.80

Jan. 30—H. Schrieber milk..... 17.60

Jan. 31—C. J. Game gr. cr..... 4.75

Feb. 4—Hugo Schrieber milk..... 18.19

Feb. 8—A. Trudeau gr. cr..... .98

Feb. 11—A. M. Lewis, 5000

straws

Feb. 14—H. Schrieber milk..... 3.00

Feb. 17—H. Schrieber milk..... 18.77

Feb. 28—H. Schrieber milk..... 10.50

Mar. 3—H. Schrieber milk..... 21.00

Mar. 11—H. Schrieber milk..... 19.49

Mar. 18—H. Schrieber milk..... 18.00

Mar. 25—H. Schrieber milk..... 17.98

Mar. 31—H. Schrieber milk..... 17.15

Apr. 11—A. M. Lewis, 5000

Straws..... 1.40

Apr. 15—H. Schrieber milk..... 16.80

Apr. 24—H. Schrieber milk..... 14.88

Apr. 29—H. Schrieber milk..... 12.42

May 15—H. Schrieber milk..... 2.78

May 16—C. J. Game gr. cr..... 25.90

Total..... $282.98

Balance in Bank, June 5, 1922 $1.53

Irene Simpson.

School No. Examined Overweight

Royce..... 4..... 2

Scott..... 4..... 7

Conventry..... 21..... 7

Cobb..... 4..... 2

Funk..... 5..... 1

Stockert..... 8..... 0

Deward..... 13..... 0

Wakeley..... 1..... 0

Schrieber..... 1..... 0

Kellogg..... 10..... 1

Lovella..... 16..... 3

Total..... 113..... 22

Defects.

Vision..... 1..... 2

Throat..... 2..... 2

Teeth..... 3..... 2

Underweight..... 4..... 2

Total Boys Girls

No. examined..... 87..... 44..... 43

No. 10% underweight..... 15..... 5..... 11

No. overweight..... 25..... 12..... 13

No. normal..... 2..... 4..... 3

Defects.

Vision..... 7..... 4..... 3

Teeth..... 21..... 15..... 6

Nose and throat..... 22..... 10..... 12

Inspected January 1922.

Because of a misunderstanding

Love and Benedict schools were not visited until they were closed.

Ann Walton.

NASH OWNERS PARADE FOR MANUFACTURER.

In honor of a visit by President C. W. Nash, of the Nash Motor Company of Kenosha, Wis., T. E. Douglas and Jess Schoonover local Nash dealers, invited all Nash owners to be present at the Michigan Central depot Wednesday afternoon to meet him, and by the time the train arrived the street about the depot was clogged with Nash cars.

The visitors were loaded into cars and a parade was formed and a quick trip with tooting of horns, was taken about the city, winding up at the Base ball park. Here the camera man was awaiting them. A semi-circle was formed seventeen cars being in the circle and a panoramic picture was taken of the group.

President Nash said that he felt highly honored by the citizens of Grayling and was glad to see his automobile factory so well represented by the large number of Nash cars. He, with his wife and daughter, and several officials of his firm were on their way to Lovella where Mr. Nash has a comfortable summer home on the North Branch of the AuSable river.

By the quick work of the Wingard studio, pictures of the "Nash" party were on exhibition the same evening.

Large assortment of camels and sponges for your automobile.

Central Drug Store.

GRAYLING TAKES DOUBLE HEADER

GRAYLING KEEPS UP WINNING STREAK TAKING BOTH GAMES.

Due to the heavy rain Saturday the game to be played that day between the Koscisko Base ball club of Saginaw and Grayling was called off, and Sunday a double header was played between the two teams, Grayling taking both games.

The first game started at 1:30 o'clock and was one of the most one-sided games played in Grayling for some time, the score ending 27 to 3. The visitors just made one error after another. They came here with the reputation of being the fastest team in the Saginaw valley, but we failed in this game to see where they got the idea. Summerfield for Saginaw failed to check Grayling's heavy hitters. He was relieved in the 6th inning by Gost who did not fare much better. Noa of Grayling was on the mound for Grayling and pitched a fine game of ball, and he had great support. In this game Grayling scored in every inning, getting from 1 to 4 scores every frame.

The score by innings was:
Koscisko..... 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—3—9-7
Grayling..... 2 1 4 2 5 3 6 x—27-28-2
Struck out by Noa 13; by Summerfield 5; by Gost 2.

Two base hits, Minnes 1, W. Laurant 2; E. Johnson 1, Noa 1, Doroh 1; S. Shogun 1; Anderson 2.

Three base hits, Morrow 2.

Batteries for Grayling Noa and Johnson; for Saginaw, Summerfield and Gost, Goltz.

The second game was a much closer contest, "Hank" Ninerger a six-footer of Saginaw throwing for the visitors. He threw much better ball than either of the two who pitched in the first game, and the team in general all played better behind him, and made it a game worth seeing. Laurant for Grayling pitched a fine brand of ball and allowed the visitors a few scattered hits but with the work of Grayling in the field and on the sacks they were unable to get all around. Doroh Grayling's left fielder made some fine catches during the games and blanked the visitors from making possible runs. Only seven innings were played in the second game and the score was 3 to 1.

The score by innings was:
Koscisko..... 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—1-7-3
Grayling..... 1 0 0 1 1 0 x—3-5-1
Struck out by Laurant 4; by Ninerger 2.

Bases on balls, off Laurant 0; off Ninerger 3.

Two base hits, W. Laurant 1; Anderson 1.

Three base hits, W. Laurant 1.

Batteries for Grayling—Laurant and Johnson. For Saginaw—Ninerger and Goltz.

Umpires—Duclos and Guthrie.

Farm Bureau Notes

R. D. BAILEY

County Agricultural Agent

Two More.

Last week Friday two more of our progressive farmers made another step in the right direction.

John McGillis, of South Branch Township, and Joseph Burton for his Beaver Creek farm each received from the north-bound cannon bull a splendid registered purebred Holstein bull.

We have been looking for these animals quite a while. Naturally, we felt quite excited when the train rolled in bearing them to our midst.

To some the purchase of a splendid animal may not seem to be much of an event; but, thoughtful people of town or country can certainly see that only through the coming of choice dairy stock will our farming ever amount to much.

Proud of the List.

Since I became County Agent the following have secured registered purebred Holsteins:

Wm. G. Feldhauser, Conrad Howse, F. A. Goshorn, George Annis, Joseph Burton, Andrew Mortenson, A. B. Failing and John McGillis have secured bulls.

Herman Wendt and Charles Hazard have secured heifers.

Orders for Others.

I have orders to find another heifer and two more bulls. This is what I call "encouraging."

Others, Too.

I feel certain that several others of our progressive farmers are on the verge of giving orders for heifer calves, bred heifers, bull calves or mature bulls.

Don't Borrow Trouble.

Now, don't lie awake nights fearing that we will soon have too many of such stock in here.

The more we have the better off we are. We certainly should keep on until there is not a scrub bull left in the county. Anyone will agree that a scrub bull is a nuisance.

There certainly can be no objection to having every cow in the county a pure-bred or a high-grade, for that has proven very profitable in all other counties where they have been.

Crawford County can become like Livingston County, Michigan, and Jefferson County, Wisconsin, or New

(Continued on last page.)

INDIANS CLAIM CANADIAN PARK

MOUNTED POLICE ON GUARD TO HEAD OFF TRIBESMEN AT POINT PEELE.

300 WANT TO SETTLE ON LAND

Maintain That Old Treaty Made By British in 1749 Entitles Indians Possession.

Learnington, Ont.—Encamped within the precincts of the Dominion government's national park, at Point Pelee, seven miles east of this little south Essex town, a small detachment of Royal Canadian mounted police, under command of Sergeant A. Birtwhistle, Monday night awaited the coming of a band of some 300 full-blooded Indians, who have announced their intention of taking possession of many hundreds of thousands of acres of the finest farm lands in western Ontario.

The Indians claim the land under an old British treaty of 1749. The government, through its department of Indian affairs, at Ottawa, has notified Forest H. Conover, superintendent of the Point Pelee park, that the Indians must be treated as trespassers in case they attempt to encroach upon the government park.

An advance guard, consisting of two families and numbering about 15, reached Point Pelee several days ago, and are camping in an old wooden house on what is known as alienated lands, just outside the park preserves.

Among them is Archie Dodge, an Indian of the Pottawatomi tribe, who claims to be a great grandson of the last chief of the Pottawatomi. Dodge came here from Avilston, was intercepted by Sergeant Birtwhistle and cajoled, concerning the plans of the Indians to take up their quarters inside the park.

Dodge, who is 23 years old, explained that the men of his tribe were the original settlers on the lands along Lake Erie's shores, where is now located the Pelee national park, and that they had left this section of country about 1856. Included in the band now on the way here, are Ojibwas, Pottawatamis and Ottawas.

The lands which the Indians now declare they are entitled to extend from Point Pelee, which is the most southerly point in the Canadian mainland, east to Sturgeon Creek, a distance of 10 miles, and to the town of Wheatly 11 miles east of Learnington.

FRANCE IS FIRM ON DEMANDS.

Asks For Recognition of Rights of Holders of Russian Bonds.

Paris—Premier Poincare's note to the British government relative to The Hague conference, which was delivered ad to the British embassy Monday evening, and which constitutes a reply to the recent British memorandum, insists upon the restitution of private property in Russia to foreign owners from whom it was confiscated and that only exceptionally should the soviet government be permitted to replace restitution by compensation.

Concerning the war debts France is favorable to granting delays in payment, but cannot admit for the present reductions to the amount of the sums borrowed by Russia during the war. France also insists upon the recognition of the rights of French holders of pre-war Russian bonds.

FORD OWNERS

Chattering brake bands are caused by faulty lubrication

Warco Motor Oil

stops this annoying trouble. For sale by the following:

Burke's Garage

RADIATORS

Repaired and Rebuilt.

Bulck Garage, Cheboygan, Mich.

Burke's Garage

The ability of the Kelly Kant-Slip Cord to hold the road is equalled only by its ability to deliver exceptional mileage. And the combination of these two qualities in one tire at a price no higher than you have to pay for an ordinary tire creates a value which is unbeatable.

Let us show you this wonderful tire

A. PETERSON & SON

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

Grayling, Michigan.

THE INDIAN DRUM

By William MacHarg and Edwin Balmer

Copyright by Edwin Balmer

SLUGGED!

SYNOPSIS.—Wealthy and highly placed in the Chicago business world, Benjamin Corvet is something of a recluse and a mystery to his associates. After a stormy interview with his partner, Henry Spearman, Corvet seeks Constancia Sherrill, daughter of his other business partner, Lawrence Sherrill, and agrees from her a promise not to marry Spearman until he returns. He then disappears. Sherrill learns Corvet has written to a certain Alan Conrad, in Blue Rapids, Kansas, and exhibited strange agitation over the matter. Corvet's letter summons Conrad, a youth of unknown parentage, to Chicago. Alan arrives in Chicago. From a statement of Sherrill it seems probable Conrad is Corvet's illegitimate son. Corvet has decided his house and its contents to Alan, who takes possession. That night Alan discovers a man ransacking the desks and bureau drawers in Corvet's apartments. The appearance of Alan tremendously agitates the intruder, who appears to think him a ghost and raves of the "Mi-wa-ka." After a struggle the man escapes. Next day Alan learns from Sherrill that Corvet has decided his entire property to him, introduced to Spearman, Alan is astonished at the discovery that he is the man whom he had fought in his house the night before. Alan tells no one of his strange encounter, but in a private interview takes Spearman with the fact. Spearman laughs at and defies him. Spearman poisons Constancia's mind against Alan.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued.

"You're a Chippewa, aren't you, Judah?" Alan asked.

"Yes."

"Your people live at the other end of the lake, don't they?"

"Yes, Alan."

"Have you ever heard of the Indian Drum beat about up there, that they say sounds when a ship goes down on the lake?"

The Indian's eyes sparkled excitedly. "Yes," he said.

"Do you believe in it?"

"Not just believe; I know. Everybody knows that it sounds for those who die on the lake. I have heard it. It sounded for my father."

"Like this," his father said some hundreds of miles away on Beaver Island. The man kept store on Beaver Island. Alan no Indian liked him. He would not hand anything to an Indian or wear anything to paper for an Indian. Say it was like this: An Indian comes in to buy salt pork. First the man would take the money. Then Alan would take his look and gull the pork up out of the barrel and throw it on the dirty floor for the Indian to pick up. He said Indians must take their food off the floor—like dogs.

"My father had to take the bullets to the man across to Beaver Island. At first the Indians did not know who the bullets were for, so they helped him. When they found out the bullets were for the man on Beaver Island, the Indians would not help him."

Alan started and went quickly to the open door of his room, as he heard voices near somewhere within the house. One of the voices he recognized as Wassaquum's; the other indistinct. Wassaquum was unknown to him; it certainly was not Spearman's. He descended swiftly to the front hall, where Wassaquum was standing in the front hall, alone.

"Who was here, Judah?" Alan demanded.

"A man, the Indian answered sternly. 'He was drunk; I put him out.' 'What did he come for?' 'He came to see Ben. I put him out; he is gone, Alan.' Alan flung open the front door and looked out, but he saw no one.

"What did he want of Mr. Corvet, Judah?"

"I do not know. I told him Ben was not here; he was angry, but he went away."

"Has he ever come here before?"

"Yes, he comes twice."

"He has been here twice?"

"More than that; every year he comes twice; Alan. Once he came often."

"How long has he been doing that?"

"Since I can remember."

"Is he a friend of Mr. Corvet?"

"No friend—not."

"But Mr. Corvet saw him when he came here?"

"Always, Alan."

"And you don't know at all what he came about?"

"How should I know? No; I do not."

Alan got his coat and hat. The sudden disappearance of the man might mean only that he had hurried away, but it might mean, too, that he was still lurking near the house. Alan had decided to make the circuit of the house and determine that. But as he came out on to the porch, a figure more than a block away to the south strode with uncertain step into the light of a street lamp, halted and faced about, and shook his fist back at the house. Alan dragged the Indian out on to the porch.

"Is that the man, Judah?" he demanded.

"Yes, Alan."

Alan ran down the steps and at full speed after the man. But when he reached the corner, he was nowhere in sight. Alan retraced his steps for several blocks, still looking; then he gave it up and returned east toward the Drive.

The side street leading to the Drive was not well lighted; dark entry ways and alleys opened on it; but the night was clear. Alan could see at the end of the street, beyond the yellow glow of the distant boulevard lights, a smooth, chill surface of the lake. A any longer. He had to take them across alone. Besides, it was bad weather, the beginning of a storm.

"You're a Chippewa, Aren't You, Judah?" Alan Asked.

"He went away, and my mother went to pick berries—I was small, then. Pretty soon I saw my mother coming back. She had no berries, and her hair was hanging down, and she was wailing. She took me in her arms and said my father was dead. Other Indians came around and asked her how she knew, and she said she heard the Drum. The Indians found my father's body."

"Did you ever hear of a ship called the Mi-wa-ka, Judah?"

"That was long ago," the Indian answered.

"They say that the Drum beat wrong when the Mi-wa-ka went down—that it was one beat short of the right number."

"That was long ago," Wassaquum meekly repeated.

"Did Mr. Corvet ever speak to you about the Mi-wa-ka?"

"No; he asked me once if I had ever heard the Drum. I told him."

Wassaquum removed the dinner and brought Alan a dessert. He returned to stand in the place across the table that Alan had assigned to him, and stood looking down at Alan, steadily and thoughtfully.

"Do I look like any one you ever saw before, Judah?" Alan inquired of him.

"No."

"Is that what you are thinking?"

"That is what I was thinking. Will you be seated in the library, Alan?"

Alan crossed to the library and seated

himself in the chair where his father had been accustomed to sit. Wassaquum brought him the single small cup of coffee, lit the spirit lamp on the smoking stand and moved that over; then he went away. When he had finished his coffee, Alan went into the smaller connecting room and recommenced his examination of the drawers under the bookshelves. At ten o'clock, Alan stopped his search and went back to the chair in the library. He dozed; for he awoke with a start and a feeling that some one had been heading over him, and gazed up into Wassaquum's face. The Indian had been scrutinizing him with intent, anxious inquiry. He moved away, but Alan called him back.

"When Mr. Corvet disappeared, Judah, you went to look for him up at Manitowish, where he was born—at least Mr. Sherrill said that was where you went. Why did you think you might find him there?" Alan asked.

"In the end, I think, a man maybe goes back to the place where he began. That's all, Alan."

"In the end? What do you mean by that? What do you think has become of Mr. Corvet?"

"I think now—Ben's dead."

"What makes you think that?"

"Nothing makes me think; I think it myself."

"I see. You mean you have no reason more than others for thinking it; but that is what you believe."

"Yes," Wassaquum went away, and Alan heard him on the back stairs, ascending to his room.

When Alan went up to his own room, after making the rounds to see that the house was locked, a drowning chant came to him from the third floor. He paused in the hall and listened, then went up to the floor above. A flickering light came to him through the half-open door of a room at the front of the house; he went a little way toward it and looked in. Two thick candles were burning before a crucifix, below which the Indian knelt, prayer book in hand and rocking to and fro as he droned his supplications.

A word or two came to Alan, but without them Wassaquum's occupation was plain; he was praying for the repose of the dead—the Catholic chant taught to him, as it had been taught undoubtedly to his fathers, by the French Jesuits of the lakes. The intoned chant for Corvet's soul, by the man who had heard the Drum, followed and still came to Alan, as he returned to the second floor.

He had not been able to determine, during the evening, Wassaquum's attitude toward Alan. Wassaquum was obliged to trust Alan had been obliged to trust a certain amount of trust in the Indian, so as he had explained to Wassaquum that morning that the desk and the drawers in the little room off Corvet's had been forced, and had warned him to see that no one, who had not proper business there, entered the house. Wassaquum had appeared to accept this order; but now Wassaquum had implied that it was not because of Alan's order that he had refused reporters admission to the house.

Alan started and went quickly to the open door of his room, as he heard voices near somewhere within the house. One of the voices he recognized as Wassaquum's; the other indistinct. Wassaquum was unknown to him; it certainly was not Spearman's. He descended swiftly to the front hall, where Wassaquum was standing in the front hall, alone.

"Who was here, Judah?" Alan demanded.

"A man, the Indian answered sternly. 'He was drunk; I put him out.' 'What did he come for?' 'He came to see Ben. I put him out; he is gone, Alan.' Alan flung open the front door and looked out, but he saw no one.

"What did he want of Mr. Corvet, Judah?"

"I do not know. I told him Ben was not here; he was angry, but he went away."

"Has he ever come here before?"

"Yes, he comes twice."

"He has been here twice?"

"More than that; every year he comes twice; Alan. Once he came often."

"How long has he been doing that?"

"Since I can remember."

"Is he a friend of Mr. Corvet?"

"No friend—not."

"But Mr. Corvet saw him when he came here?"

"Always, Alan."

"And you don't know at all what he came about?"

"How should I know? No; I do not."

Alan got his coat and hat. The sudden disappearance of the man might mean only that he had hurried away, but it might mean, too, that he was still lurking near the house. Alan had decided to make the circuit of the house and determine that. But as he came out on to the porch, a figure more than a block away to the south strode with uncertain step into the light of a street lamp, halted and faced about, and shook his fist back at the house. Alan dragged the Indian out on to the porch.

"Is that the man, Judah?" he demanded.

"Yes, Alan."

Alan ran down the steps and at full speed after the man. But when he reached the corner, he was nowhere in sight. Alan retraced his steps for several blocks, still looking; then he gave it up and returned east toward the Drive.

The side street leading to the Drive was not well lighted; dark entry ways and alleys opened on it; but the night was clear. Alan could see at the end of the street, beyond the yellow glow of the distant boulevard lights, a smooth, chill surface of the lake. A giving him every possible care? At once."

She ran part way down the stairs and met her father as he came up. He told her of the situation briefly.

"He was attacked on the street late last night; he was unconscious when they found him and took him to the hospital, and has been unconscious ever since. No one can say yet how seriously he is injured."

She waited in the hall while her father dressed, after calling the garage on the house telephone for him and ordering the motor. When he had gone, she returned anxiously to her room; he had promised to call her after reaching the hospital and as soon as he had learned the particulars of Alan's condition. It was ridiculous, of course, to attach any responsibility to her father or herself for what had happened to Alan—a street attack such as might have happened to any one—yet she felt that they were in part responsible. They had let him go to live alone in the house in Astor street with no better adviser than Wassaquum. Now, and perhaps because they had not warned him, he had met injury and, it might be, more than mere injury; it might be dying.

Something which had disturbed and excited Alan had happened to him on the first night he had passed in that house; and now, it appeared, he had been prevented from passing a second night there. What had prevented him had been an attempted robbery upon the street, her father had said, but suppose it had been something else than robbery.

She could not formulate more definitely this thought, but it persisted; she could not deny it entirely and shake it off.

To Alan Conrad, in the late afternoon of that day, this same thought was coming far more definitely and far more persistently. He had been awake and sane since shortly after noonday. The pain of a head which ached throbbingly and of a body bruised and sore was beginning to give place to a feeling merely of lassitude—a languor which revisited incoherence upon him when he tried to think. The man who had assaulted him had meant to kill; he had not been an ordinary robber. That purpose, blindly recognized and fought against by Alan in his struggle, had been unmistakable. Only the chance presence of passersby, who had heard Alan's shouts and responded to them, had prevented the execution of his purpose, and had driven the man to swift flight for his own safety.

A little before six Constancia Sherrill and Spearman called to inquire after him and were admitted for a few moments to his room. She came to him, bent over him, while she spoke the few words of sympathy the nurse allowed to her; she stood back then while Spearman spoke to him. In the succeeding days he saw her nearly every day, accompanied always by her father or Spearman. It was the full two weeks the doctors had insisted on his remaining in the hospital before he saw her alone.

They had brought him home, the day before, and she and her father, in the motor, to the house on Astor street, had insisted on returning there, refusing the room in their house which they had offered; but the doctor had said that Alan needed moderate exercise for him, and she had made him promise to come and walk with her. He went to the Sherrill house about ten o'clock, and they walked northward toward the park.

"There is something I have been wanting to ask you," she said.

"Yes."

"That night when you were hurt—it was for robbery, they said. What do you think about it?" She watched him as he looked at her and then away; but his face was completely expressionless.

"My consciousness was a little too much for me to realize, Miss Sherrill. But there was no demand upon you to give over your money before you were attacked?"

"No."

She breathed a little more quickly.

"It must be a strange sensation," she observed, "to know that some one has tried to kill you."

"It must, indeed."

"You mean you didn't think that he tried to kill you?"

"I was hardly in a condition, Miss Sherrill, to appreciate anything about the man at all. Why do you ask?"

"Because—" She hesitated. "In a condition. If you were attacked to be killed, it meant that you must have been attacked as the son of Mr. Corvet. Then that meant—at least it implied—that Mr. Corvet was killed, that he did not go away. You see that, of course."

"Were you the only one who thought that? Or did some one speak to you about it?"

"No one did; I spoke to father. He thought—"

"Yes."

"Well, if Mr. Corvet was murdered, I'm following what father thought, you know."

"You're a Chippewa, Aren't You, Judah?" Alan Asked.

any longer. He had to take them across alone. Besides, it was bad weather, the beginning of a storm.

"He went away, and my mother went to pick berries—I was small, then. Pretty soon I saw my mother coming back. She had no berries, and her hair was hanging down, and she was wailing. She took me in her arms and said my father was dead. Other Indians came around and asked her how she knew, and she said she heard the Drum. The Indians found my father's body."

"Did you ever hear of a ship called the Mi-wa-ka, Judah?"

"That was long ago," the Indian answered.

"They say that the Drum beat wrong when the Mi-wa-ka went down—that it was one beat short of the right number."

"That was long ago," Wassaquum meekly repeated.

"Did Mr. Corvet ever speak to you about the Mi-wa-ka?"

"No; he asked me once if I had ever heard the Drum. I told him."

Wassaquum removed the dinner and brought Alan a dessert. He returned to stand in the place across the table that Alan had assigned to him, and stood looking down at Alan, steadily and thoughtfully.

"Do I look like any one you ever saw before, Judah?" Alan inquired of him.

"No."

"Is that what you are thinking?"

"That is what I was thinking. Will you be seated in the library, Alan?"

Alan crossed to the library and seated

himself in the chair where his father had been accustomed to sit. Wassaquum brought him the single small cup of coffee, lit the spirit lamp on the smoking stand and moved that over; then he went away. When he had finished his coffee, Alan went into the smaller connecting room and recommenced his examination of the drawers under the bookshelves. At ten o'clock, Alan stopped his search and went back to the chair in the library. He dozed; for he awoke with a start and a feeling that some one had been heading over him, and gazed up into Wassaquum's face. The Indian had been scrutinizing him with intent, anxious inquiry. He moved away, but Alan called him back.

"When Mr. Corvet disappeared, Judah, you went to look for him up at Manitowish, where he was born—at least Mr. Sherrill said that was where you went. Why did you think you might find him there?" Alan asked.

"In the end, I think, a man maybe goes back to the place where he began. That's all, Alan."

"In the end? What do you mean by that? What do you think has become of Mr. Corvet?"

"I think now—Ben's dead."

"What makes you think that?"

"Nothing makes me think; I think it myself."

"I see. You mean you have no reason more than others for thinking it; but that is what you believe."

"Yes," Wassaquum went away, and Alan heard him on the back stairs, ascending to his room.

When Alan went up to his own room, after making the rounds to see that the house was locked, a drowning chant came to him from the third floor. He paused in the hall and listened, then went up to the floor above. A flickering light came to him through the half-open door of a room at the front of the house; he went a little way toward it and looked in. Two thick candles were burning before a crucifix, below which the Indian knelt, prayer book in hand and rocking to and fro as he droned his supplications.

white light rode above it; now, below the white light, he saw a red speck—the masthead and port lanterns of a steamer northward bound. Farther out, a second white glow appeared from behind the obscuration of the buildings and below it a green speck—a starboard light. Information he had gained enabled him to recognize in these lights two steamers passing one another at the harbor mouth.

His thoughts turned to Constancia Sherrill. Events since he had talked with her that morning had put them far apart once more; but, in another way, they were being drawn closer together. For he knew now that she was caught as well as he in the mesh of consequences of acts not their own.

He staggered, slipped, fell suddenly forward upon his knees, under a stunning, crushing blow upon his head from behind. Thought, consciousness almost lost, he struggled, twisting himself about to grasp at his assailant. He caught the man's clothing, trying to drag himself up; fighting blindly, dazedly, unable to see or think, he shouted aloud and then again, aloud. He seemed in the distance to hear answering cries; but the weight and strength of the offer was bearing him down again to his knees; he tried to slip aside from it, to rise. Then another blow, crushing and sickening, descended on his head even lighting left him and unconscious, he fell forward on to the snow and lay still.

He Staggered, Slipped, Fell Suddenly Forward Upon His Knees Under a Stunning, Crushing Blow Upon His Head From Behind.

self about to grasp at his assailant. He caught the man's clothing, trying to drag himself up; fighting blindly, dazedly, unable to see or think, he shouted aloud and then again, aloud. He seemed in the distance to hear answering cries; but the weight and strength of the offer was bearing him down again to his knees; he tried to slip aside from it, to rise. Then another blow, crushing and sickening, descended on his head even lighting left him and unconscious, he fell forward on to the snow and lay still.

CHAPTER IX.

A Walk Beside the Lake.

"The name seems like Sherrill," the intruder agreed. "He said it before when we had him on the table upstairs; and he has said it now twice distinctly, Sherrill."

"His name, do you think?"

"I shouldn't say so; he seems trying to speak to me some named Sherrill. There are only four Sherrills in the telephone book, two of them in Evans-ton and one way out in Minnesota."

"The other?"

"There are only six blocks from where he was picked up; but they're on the Drive—the Lawrence Sherrills."

"The name whistled softly and looked more intently at his patient's features. "He'll be conscious some time during the day, there's only a slight fracture, and—perhaps you'd better call the Sherrill house, anyway. If he's not known there, no harm done; and it's one of their friends and he should."

The nurse nodded and moved off.

Thus it was that at a quarter to five Constancia Sherrill was awakened by the knocking of one of the servants at her father's door. Her father went down stairs to the telephone instrument where he might reply without disturbing Mrs. Sherrill. Constancia, knowing her father's door, stood at the top of the stairs and waited. It became plain to her at once that whatever had happened had been to Alan Conrad.

"Yes. Yes. You are giving him every possible care? At once."

She ran part way down the stairs and met her father as he came up. He told her of the situation briefly.

"He was attacked on the street late last night; he was unconscious when they found him and took him to the hospital, and has been unconscious ever since. No one can say yet how seriously he is injured."

She waited in the hall while her father dressed, after calling the garage on the house telephone for him and ordering the motor. When he had gone, she returned anxiously to her room; he had promised to call her after reaching the hospital and as soon as he had learned the particulars of Alan's condition. It was ridiculous, of course, to attach any responsibility to her father or herself for what had happened to Alan—a street attack such as might have happened to any one—yet she felt that they were in part responsible. They had let him go to live alone in the house in Astor street with no better adviser than Wassaquum. Now, and perhaps because they had not warned him, he had met injury and, it might be, more than mere injury; it might be dying.

Something which had disturbed and excited Alan had happened to him on the first night he had passed in that house; and now, it appeared, he had been prevented from passing a second night there. What had prevented him had been an attempted robbery upon the street, her father had said, but suppose it had been something else than robbery.

She could not formulate more definitely this thought, but it persisted; she could not deny it entirely and shake it off.

To Alan Conrad, in the late afternoon of that day, this same thought was coming far more definitely and far more persistently. He had been awake and sane since shortly after noonday. The pain of a head which ached throbbingly and of a body bruised and sore was beginning to give place to a feeling merely of lassitude—a languor which revisited incoherence upon him when he tried to think. The man who had assaulted him had meant to kill; he had not been an ordinary robber. That purpose, blindly recognized and fought against by Alan in his struggle, had been unmistakable. Only the chance presence of passersby, who had heard Alan's shouts and responded to them, had prevented the execution of his purpose, and had driven the man to swift flight for his own safety.

A little before six Constancia Sherrill and Spearman called to inquire after him and were admitted for a few moments to his room. She came to him, bent over him, while she spoke the few words of sympathy the nurse allowed to her; she stood back then while Spearman spoke to him. In the succeeding days he saw her nearly every day, accompanied always by her father or Spearman. It was the full two weeks the doctors had insisted on his remaining in the hospital before he saw her alone.

They had brought him home, the day before, and she and her father, in the motor, to the house on Astor street, had insisted on returning there, refusing the room in their house which they had offered; but the doctor had said that Alan needed moderate exercise for him, and she had made him promise to come and walk with her. He went to the Sherrill house about ten o'clock, and they walked northward toward the park.

"There is something I have been wanting to ask you," she said.

"Yes."

"That night when you were hurt—it was for robbery, they said. What do you think about it?" She watched him as he looked at her and then away; but his face was completely expressionless.

"My consciousness was a little too much for me to realize, Miss Sherrill. But there was no demand upon you to give over your money before you were attacked?"

"No."

She breathed a little more quickly.

"It must be a strange sensation," she observed, "to know that some one has tried to kill you."

"It must, indeed."

"You mean you didn't think that he tried to kill you?"

"I was hardly in a condition, Miss Sherrill, to appreciate anything about the man at all. Why do you ask?"

"Because—" She hesitated. "In a condition. If you were attacked to be killed, it meant that you must have been attacked as the son of Mr. Corvet. Then that meant—at least it implied—that Mr. Corvet was killed, that he did not go away. You see that, of course."

"Were you the only one who thought that? Or did some one speak to you about it?"

"No one did; I spoke to father. He thought—"

"Yes."

"Well, if Mr. Corvet was murdered, I'm following what father thought, you know."

"You're a Chippewa, Aren't You, Judah?" Alan Asked.

any longer. He had to take them across alone. Besides, it was bad weather, the beginning of a storm.

"He went away, and my mother went to pick berries—I was small, then. Pretty soon I saw my mother coming back. She had no berries, and her hair was hanging down, and she was wailing. She took me in her arms and said my father was dead. Other Indians came around and asked her how she knew, and she said she heard the Drum. The Indians found my father's body."

"Did you ever hear of a ship called the Mi-wa-ka, Judah?"

"That was long ago," the Indian answered.

"They say that the Drum beat wrong when the Mi-wa-ka went down—that it was one beat short of the right number."

"That was long ago," Wassaquum meekly repeated.

"Did Mr. Corvet ever speak to you about the Mi-wa-ka?"

"No; he asked me once if I had ever heard the Drum. I told him."

Wassaquum removed the dinner and brought Alan a dessert. He returned to stand in the place across the table that Alan had assigned to him, and stood looking down at Alan, steadily and thoughtfully.

"Do I look like any one you ever saw before, Judah?" Alan inquired of him.

"No."

"Is that what you are thinking?"

"That is what I was thinking. Will you be seated in the library, Alan?"

Alan crossed to the library and seated

himself in the chair where his father had been accustomed to sit. Wassaquum brought him the single small cup of coffee, lit the spirit lamp on the smoking stand and moved that over; then he went away. When he had finished his coffee, Alan went into the smaller connecting room and recommenced his examination of the drawers under the bookshelves. At ten o'clock, Alan stopped his search and went back to the chair in the library. He dozed; for he awoke with a start and a feeling that some one had been heading over him, and gazed up into Wassaquum's face. The Indian had been scrutinizing him with intent, anxious inquiry. He moved away, but Alan called him back.

"When Mr. Corvet disappeared, Judah, you went to look for him up at Manitowish, where he was born—at least Mr. Sherrill said that was where you went. Why did you think you might find him there?" Alan asked.

"In the end, I think, a man maybe goes back to the place where he began. That's all, Alan."

"In the end? What do you mean by that? What do you think has become of Mr. Corvet?"

"I think now—Ben's dead."

"What makes you think that?"

"Nothing makes me think; I think it myself."

"I see. You mean you have no reason more than others for thinking it; but that is what you believe."

"Yes," Wassaquum went away, and Alan heard him on the back stairs, ascending to his room.

When Alan went up to his own room, after making the rounds to see that the house was locked, a drowning chant came to him from the third floor. He paused in the hall and listened, then went up to the floor above. A flickering light came to him through the half-open door of a room at the front of the house; he went a little way toward it and looked in. Two thick candles were burning before a crucifix, below which the Indian knelt, prayer book in hand and rocking to and fro as he droned his supplications.

THIS STORY IS HARD TO CREDIT

It True, However, It Shows the Remarkable Subtlety of the Mind of the Oriental.

One ingenious if dishonest native of India turned his dark skin to excellent account. One of the European examiners of Calcutta university, says Lord Frederic Hamilton in his book "Days Before Yesterday," told me that there had been a great deal of trouble about the examination papers; by some means or other the native students at ways managed to obtain what we may term "advance" copies of the papers. My informant had accordingly devised a scheme to stop the leakage. Instead of having the papers printed in the usual fashion he called in the services of a single white printer on whom he could rely. The white printer received the papers early on the morning of the day designated for the examination and duly set them up on a hand press inside the building. He had one assistant, a coolie who was clad only in loin cloth and turban; by no possibility could he conceal any papers about his person.

In spite of these precautions, however, it soon became clear at the examination that some of the students had a previous knowledge of the questions. How had they managed it? Eventually it appeared that the coolie, taking advantage of the momentary absence of the white printer, had whipped off his loin cloth, sat down on the "form" and then replaced his solitary garment. When he was obliged to strip on going out the printing ink did not show on his dark skin; and all that he had to do was sit down on a large sheet of white paper for the questions to be printed off on it. Then, with the aid of a mirror, the students could easily read them. The Oriental mind is subtle.

Glass Resists Fire.

There is a product called "wire glass," which, it appears, presents a most effective barrier against fire. It consists simply of a meshwork of wire embedded in a glass plate. Even when licked by flames and raised to a red heat it does not fall to pieces, and it has been shown in many cases that employed in windows and skylights, wire-glass not only resists the heat of fire, but also the shattering effects of cold water poured over it while it is yet glowing-hot.

understand—it involved something a good deal worse perhaps than anything that could have been involved if he had only gone away. The facts we had made it certain that if what had happened to him was death at the hands of another—he must have foreseen that death and, seeking no protection for himself... it implied, that he preferred to die rather than to ask protection—that there was something whose concealment he thought mattered even more to him than life. It might have meant that he considered his life was... due to whom-ever took it. Her voice, which had become very low, now ceased. She was speaking to Alan of his father—a father whom he had never known, and whom he could not have recognized by sight until she showed him the picture a few weeks before; but she was speaking of his father.

"Mr. Sherrill didn't feel that it was necessary for him to do anything, even though he thought that?"

"If Mr. Corvet was dead, we could do him no good, surely, by telling this to the police; if the police succeeded in finding out all the facts, we would be doing only what Uncle Benny did not wish—that he preferred death to. We could not tell the police about it without telling them all about Mr. Corvet, too. So father would not let himself believe that you had been attacked to be killed. He had to believe the police theory was sufficient."

Alan made no comment at once. "Wassaquum believes Mr. Corvet is dead," he said finally. "He told me so. Does your father believe that?"

"I think he is beginning to believe it."

"I've not told any one," he said, now watching her, "how I happened to be out of the house that night. I followed a man who came there to the house. Wassaquum did not know his name. He did not know Mr. Corvet was gone; for he came there to see Mr. Corvet. He was not an ordinary friend of Mr. Corvet's; but he had come there often. Wassaquum did not know why. Wassaquum had sent the man away, and went out after him; but I could not find him."

He stopped an instant, studying her. "That was not the first man who came to the house," he went on quickly, as she was about to speak. "I found a man in Mr. Corvet's house the first night that I spent there. Wassaquum was away, you remember, and I was alone in the house."

"A man there in the house?" she repeated.

"He was going through Mr. Corvet's things—not the silver and all that, but through his desks and files and cases. He was looking for something—something which he seemed to want very much when I interfered. It greatly excited him. I frightened him. He thought I was a ghost."

"I don't know," she said, now, "but I don't know; some one whom he seemed to have known pretty well—and whom Mr. Corvet knew, he thought."

"Why didn't you tell us this before?"

"At first—I am telling you now, Miss Sherrill. I frightened him, and he got away. But I had seen him plainly. I can describe him. . . . You've talked with your father of the possibility that something might happen to me such as, perhaps, happened to Mr. Corvet. If anything does happen to me, a description of the man may... prove useful."

"Then clearly and definitely as it could, he described Spearman to her. She did not recognize the description; he had known she would not. Had not Spearman been in Duluth? Beyond giving him every possible care? At once."

She ran part way down the stairs and met her father as he came up. He told her of the situation briefly.

"He was attacked on the street late last night; he was unconscious when they found him and took him to the hospital, and has been unconscious ever since. No one can say yet how seriously he is injured."

She waited in the hall while her father dressed, after calling the garage on the house telephone for him and ordering the motor. When he had gone, she returned anxiously to her room; he had promised to call her after reaching the hospital and as soon as he had learned the particulars of Alan's condition. It was ridiculous, of course, to attach any responsibility to her father or herself for what had happened to Alan—a street attack such as might have happened to any one—yet she felt that they were in part responsible. They had let him go to live alone in the house in Astor street with no better adviser than Wassaquum. Now, and perhaps because they had not warned him, he had met injury and, it might be, more than mere injury; it might be dying.

Something which had disturbed and excited Alan had happened to him on the first night he had passed in that house; and now, it appeared, he had been prevented from passing a second night there. What had prevented him had been an attempted robbery upon the street, her father had said, but suppose it had been something else than robbery.

She could not formulate more definitely this thought, but it persisted; she could not deny it entirely and shake it off.

To Alan Conrad, in the late afternoon of that day, this same thought was coming far more definitely and far more persistently. He had been awake and sane since shortly after noonday. The pain of a head which ached throbbingly and of a body bruised and sore was beginning to give place to a feeling merely of lassitude—a languor which revisited incoherence upon him when he tried to think. The man who had assaulted him had meant to kill; he had not been an ordinary robber. That purpose, blindly recognized and fought against by Alan in his struggle, had been unmistakable. Only the chance presence of passersby, who had heard Alan's shouts and responded to them, had prevented the execution of his purpose, and had driven the man to swift flight for his own safety.

A little before six Constancia Sherrill and Spearman called to inquire after him and were admitted for a few moments to his room. She came to him, bent over him, while she spoke the few words of sympathy the nurse allowed to her; she stood back then while Spearman spoke to him. In the succeeding days he saw her nearly every day, accompanied always by her father or Spearman. It was the full two weeks the doctors had insisted on his remaining in the hospital before he saw her alone.

They had brought him home, the day before, and she and her father, in the motor, to the house on Astor street, had insisted on returning there, refusing the room in their house which they had offered; but the doctor had said that Alan needed moderate exercise for him, and she had made him promise to come and walk with her. He went to the Sherrill house about ten o'clock, and they walked northward toward the park.

"There is something I have been wanting to ask you," she said.

"Yes."

"That night when you were hurt—it was for robbery, they said. What do you think about it?" She watched him as he looked at her and then away; but his face was completely expressionless.

"My consciousness was a little too much for me to realize, Miss Sherrill. But there was no demand upon you to give over your money before you were attacked?"

"No."

She breathed a little more quickly.

"It must be a strange sensation," she observed, "to know that some one has tried to kill you."

"It must, indeed."

"You mean you didn't think that he tried to kill you?"

"I was hardly in a condition, Miss Sherrill, to appreciate anything about the man at all. Why do you ask?"

"Because—" She hesitated. "In a condition. If you were attacked to be killed, it meant that you must have been attacked as the son of Mr. Corvet. Then that meant—at least it implied—that Mr. Corvet was killed, that he did not go away. You see that, of course."

"Were you the only one who thought that? Or did some one speak to you about it?"

"No one did; I spoke to father. He thought—"

"Yes."

"Well, if Mr. Corvet was murdered, I'm following what father thought, you know."

understand—it involved something a good deal worse perhaps than anything that could have been involved if he had only gone away. The facts we had made it certain that if what had happened to him was death at the hands of another—he must have foreseen that death and, seeking no protection for himself... it implied, that he preferred to die rather than to ask protection—that there was something whose concealment he thought mattered even more to him than life. It might have meant that he considered his life was... due to whom-ever took it. Her voice, which had become very low, now ceased. She was speaking to Alan of his father—a father whom he had never known, and whom he could not have recognized by sight until she showed him the picture a few weeks before; but she was speaking of his father.

"Mr. Sherrill didn't feel that it was necessary for him to do anything, even though he thought that?"

"If Mr. Corvet was dead, we could do him no good, surely, by telling this to the police; if the police succeeded in finding out all the facts, we would be doing only what Uncle Benny did not wish—that he preferred death to. We could not tell the police about it without telling them all about Mr. Corvet, too. So father would not let himself believe that you had been attacked to be killed. He had to believe the police theory was sufficient."

Alan made no comment at once. "Wassaquum believes Mr. Corvet is dead," he said finally. "He told me so. Does your father believe that?"

"I think he is beginning to believe it."

"I've not told any one," he said, now watching her, "how I happened to be out of the house that night. I followed a man who came there to the house. Wassaquum did not know his name. He did not know Mr. Corvet was gone; for he came there to see Mr. Corvet. He was not an ordinary friend of Mr. Corvet's; but he had come there often. Wassaquum did not know why. Wassaquum had sent the man away, and went out after him; but I could not find him."

He stopped an instant, studying her. "That was not the first man who came to the house," he went on quickly, as she was about to speak. "I found a man in Mr. Corvet's house the first night that I spent there. Wassaquum was away, you remember, and I was alone in the house."

"A man there in the house?" she repeated.

"He was going through Mr. Corvet's things—not the silver and all that, but through his desks and files and cases. He was looking for something—something which he seemed to want very much when I interfered. It greatly excited him. I frightened him. He thought I was a ghost."

"I don't know," she said, now, "but I don't know; some one whom he seemed to have known pretty well—and whom Mr. Corvet knew, he thought."

"Why didn't you tell us this before?"

"At first—I am telling you now, Miss Sherrill. I frightened him, and he got away. But I had seen him plainly. I can describe him. . . . You've talked with your father of the possibility that something might happen to me such as, perhaps, happened to Mr. Corvet. If anything does happen to me, a description of the man may... prove useful."

"Then clearly and definitely as it could, he described Spearman to her. She did not recognize the description; he had known she would not. Had not Spearman been in Duluth? Beyond giving him every possible care? At once."

She ran part way down the stairs and met her father as he came

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COUSIN CHEETAH

"I'm a cousin of yours," said Cousin Cheetah, to the Leopard in the next cage at the zoo.

"But I haven't your ways," said the Leopard, "and of that fact I rejoice."

"I didn't know you did much rejoicing," said Cousin Cheetah.

"Oh, yes," replied the Leopard. "Why did you say that?" he added.

"Because I knew you were a wild creature and that you were not friendly with the keeper, and I also knew that you did very little but dream of the days gone by."

"I wouldn't call any of that 'rejoicing,'" said Cousin Cheetah.

"Perhaps not," said the Leopard. "And what you say is quite, quite true."

"But still I can rejoice that I am not like you, for you are too gentle for my tastes."

"I do not believe in being too friendly with the keeper. I want to let him know that I am the Leopard and not his little pet."

"I'm a big strong ferocious animal and I'm used to wild ways and wild actions and great wild freedom."

"I do not want him to think that he has tamed me and made a little lap dog of me."

"One would hardly call you a lap dog," said Cousin Cheetah.

"Of that fact I too rejoice," said the Leopard.

"You talk so strangely," said Cousin Cheetah.

"I like to be different," said the Leopard.

"Yes, Cousin Cheetah," the Leopard continued after a few minutes, "you are even different in looks. You have spots like dark circles and I have great and magnificent spots."

"Then in the wild, free days you were never wild as I was. You hunted sheep and deer it is true, but you weren't a real hunter."

"And as for a man—why you could be as friendly with a man as these lap dogs you were talking of a few minutes ago. The Old Herra is the same way—he won't hurt a man if he can avoid it."

"Yes, he is even frightened. Now I'm not saying I'm a man-hunter."

"I Have Lovely Long Legs."

animal but I'm not what you might call on friendly terms with any of them."

"And so I do not want the keeper to think I've lost these wild ways. Some Leopard might not feel so strongly about it as I do."

"But I won't change my ways. And it is strange that you are so gentle and mild when you're so big and enormous and strong and powerful."

"Strange," said Cousin Cheetah, "but true. Ah, yes, it is true."

"I have lovely long legs and a rather thin, graceful looking body. My head is small and my spots or circles are not very large."

"I am known as the Hunting Leopard because when I was free I was taught by men to hunt with them for antelope."

"There aren't so many of us about as there are of the regular Leopards, so that we're more of a treat."

"Modest," granted the Leopard scornfully.

And then he looked upon Cousin Cheetah with more of a scornful look than ever as he saw the keeper come up to the Cheetah and pet him and stroke him while the Cheetah looked happier and friendlier at each bit of stroking and of petting.

Such a tame creature as Cousin Cheetah was, and yet he had been considered a splendid runner when he was free and a good hunter too!

RIDDLES.

Why is a pig a strange animal?—Because he is killed before he is cured.

Can a leopard change his spots?—Yes; by going from one spot to another.

Why is Richmond like the letter R?—Because it is next to Kew.

What city resembles the bark of a tree?—Cork.

Why is spring a dangerous time of year?—Because the bull rush is out and all the buds are shooting.

What is the ugliest tree?—The plane tree.

Why is rain unlike Easter?—Because it can fall on any day in the week.

What color does a whipping make a boy?—It makes him "yell O!"

When is a horse heavy?—When he is led (lend).

Why are gloves like lips?—Because they are in pairs (pears).

What is a cheap meal?—A roll on the grass.

Why are soldiers fired in April?—Because they have had a "March of thirty-one days."

Wraps for Summer Trips; Knitted Accessories

THE least showy and conspicuous of our friends often proves to be the best friend in need, and so it is with coats and wraps. Now that the time for summer journeys is here, ask the unexperienced globe-trotter, and she will tell you to begin your outfitting with a practical, roomy coat, made of a soft, warm material, in a neutral or dark color. Whether your path leads to the mountains or the sea, the tropics or the desert, take care. The sweater has been multiplied to suit occasion, and has been varied for the same reason, hats and bags to match them have joined the cheerful company of knitted accessories. These things, and others, are taken as a matter of course in the wardrobe while emphasis is placed on the kind of yarns employed and on style and color.

Knitted things, including dresses, are especially voguish for sportswear.

Practical Wraps for Summer Journeys.

a sturdy coat-along, for you will have need of it.

One does not acquire a coat of this kind for a single journey or a single season, therefore eccentricities of style are not among its possessions. We may count on straight lines, youthful and mannish styles to be long-lived and not affected by passing whims of fashion, but entirely comfortable. Such a coat is shown at the right of the two pictured here. It is provided with capacious pockets, an ample collar and is loosely belted. Made of homespun, tweed, dachshund and camel-hair and similar coverings, it is the tourist's delight.

The coat at the left of the picture proclaims itself as of this season with its wide, capelike sleeves, but it is but their usefulness does not begin to end there, unless we make "sports wear" a term of very wide application. Knitted garments, cleverly styled, appear almost everywhere. Many of them are products of wonderful looms and many of them are hand knitted—the latter having the usual prestige of handwork over machine work. Now that they are so fashionable it is well worth while to learn to knit. Women find it fascinating work, good for the nerves and an important relief to the strain on their pocketbooks.

A novice might make a beginning in the gentle art of knitting by copying the pretty scarf of Iceland wool shown here at the right of the illustration. A fine zephyr, in any color desired, is used for it and the border of stripes

Slip-Over Sweater and Scarf.

a candidate for the position of traveling companion and has much to recommend it. Where only one wrap is to be taken along for a journey or visit, it is prepared to serve for all sorts of occasions, and will prove as good a choice as any. It has a convertible collar and long girdle of the material. In beige color or tan and lined with soft satin to match it will harmonize with everything.

Already coats for fall are occupying the attention of manufacturers. They assure us that lines will continue straight and sleeves large. Even if these details are changed, the straight-line, simple coat of today is a good investment. There will be no great difficulty in having off a little of the amplexity that Fashion approves this summer if she changes her mind by fall. Coats can't grow larger—they may become smaller.

Striding along, keeping pace with the ever-increasing disposition to outdoor, many knitted things have been added to the belongings of women.

Fancy Belts Are Good.

The fancy belt is still good, and mother-of-pearl may take the place of steel. Lanvin, in a number of her tailored suits, features a plaited leather belt, which is very often made of black patent leather. Chanel, on the other hand, uses brown leather with her tweed sport suits. Lanvin is reviving the little, white, plaited frills which she is using on the collar of her suits. Other houses are also using the intricate collar of the lingerie dress to sit in the V front which is becoming to replace the batwing neck-line.

Little Girl's Coat. Coats for the six-year old are shown in the same tweeds and homespuns as mother's, and hats of the same material are shown with them, in many cases.

Summary Hats.

Large poke hats of black horsehair, braid or mottos are among the prettiest summer hats.

Copyright by Western Newspaper Union.

DAIRY HINTS

SECRETS OF DAIRY SUCCESS

Two Big Things Are Proper Care and Feed, Says Specialist of Oklahoma College.

"Two great secrets in dairying which have been the reason for the success of thousands of dairymen are proper feeding of cows and proper care of cows," says A. C. Baer, head of the Dairy Husbandry department of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college.

"Thousands of cows would be profitable and good cows if they were given a chance; if they were properly fed, housed, and cared for."

"Good feeding means to give cows enough feed to produce milk and the right kind of feed to produce milk. Most of the feed for cows ought to be grown on Oklahoma farms. Alfalfa hay is the best dairy cow feed which can be grown. Corn and sorghums, such as kafir and dargo, can be grown for the silo. Ensilage on a dairy farm or any farm where dairy cows are kept provides succulent feed and is indispensable."

"Most of the grain for cow feeding can be grown on the average Oklahoma farm. A good grain mixture for milk cows is as follows: 4 parts ground oats, 3 parts bran or alfalfa meal, 3 parts ground kafir, 1 part cottonseed meal."

"A dairy cow needs about one pound of grain for three or four pounds of milk produced. Dairy cows should be fed grain individually according to the amount of milk for growth if immature, and at times to produce gain in weight."

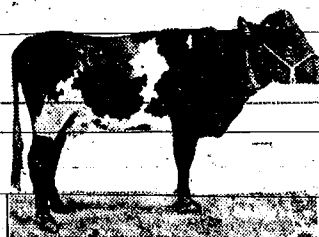

"Dairy cattle will respond to good care. Every Oklahoma farm where cows are kept should have at least a good shed to protect the cows from bad weather and cold winds. A blanket in very cold weather will pay for itself in a very short time. Every dairy cow should be cleaned and brushed regularly. It helps to keep her in better health."

DAIRY COWS RETURN PROFIT

High-Producing Animals Are Usually Most Economical in Matter of Food Consumed.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

High-producing dairy cows are nearly always economical producers, says the United States Department of Agriculture in replying to an inquiry who asked for a comparison of purebred and grade cows as to economy of production. If a herd of purebred cows has greater ability to produce milk and butter fat than a herd of grades, it will return more milk and butter fat for the feed consumed. As a rule purebreds are bred for high production, and just to the extent that they are higher producers than the grades they may be expected to return more for the feed they use. But purebreds are not always high producers.

Scrub Cows Are Not Worth Their Keep.

The ratio is not constant between the quantity of food consumed and the quantity of milk produced. The records of cow-testing associations show that the cows that produced 10,000 pounds of milk a year ate only 50 per cent more feed than those that produced 5,000 pounds of milk a year. The cows that made 7,500 pounds of milk a year ate only 21 per cent more than those that made 5,000 pounds of milk a year. These figures are based on thousands of records.

GRAIN BOOSTED MILK FLOW

Large Increase Obtained by Minnesota Community by Feeding While on Pasture.

Twenty-one dairy herds in the Blue Earth County Cow Testing association averaged 7,120 pounds of milk and 285 pounds of butterfat per cow in 1920. Nineteen herds in the same association averaged 8,300 pounds of milk and 345 pounds of butterfat per cow in 1921. The percentage of gain in milk in 1921 over 1920 was 16.3; in butterfat, 21. The tester in charge in his annual report to University farm says:

"I attribute this gain to better care and feeding. The cows were fed a grain ration the year round, thus keeping up the production during the late summer months when it usually drops because of short pastures."

Value of Boarder Cow.

Saving $35 or $50 worth of feed for a boarder cow added to what she'll bring as dressed meat means maybe a hundred dollars in the pocket, which isn't a bad price for a cow that's no good any more.

Get Cow Into Shape.

In order to get the cow into the best physical shape for the calving time, it is advisable to feed her some linseed oil, a quart of the raw product per dose, as this will clean out her digestive tract.

Determine Boarder Cow.

The "boarder" is the herd cow only be determined by the use of the weight scales and the Babcock butter-fat test.

Cheese Between Milk and Flesk. Take your choice between flesk and milk; the energy a cow uses when badly pestered with flesk can't go into milk production.

Raise Record Breakers.

Use purebred sires and raise record breakers.

EACH IS A GENUINE GOODYEAR

Each of the two tires illustrated above is a genuine Goodyear through and through.

One is the famous reliable 30 x 3 1/2 inch Goodyear All-Weather Tread Clincher.

Its companion is the popular 30 x 3 1/2 inch Goodyear Cross Rib.

The Goodyear Cross Rib is built of the same high grade Egyptian cotton fabric that goes into the All-Weather Tread Goodyear.

It has a long-wearing but differently designed tread, and sells for less money.

More than 5,000,000 of these tires have been sold in the last five years.

Their fine performance has demonstrated the folly of buying unknown and unguaranteed tires of lower price.

Ask your Goodyear Service Station Dealer about their advantages.

GOODYEAR

LOOK OLD?

Gray hair, straggly hair, thinning hair, look very old. It is necessary to have a bottle of Mitchell's Eye Salve.

Color Restorer will bring back original color quickly—also dandruff. At all good drug stores, 7c, or direct from Mitchell's, Chicago, Memphis, Tenn.

Wanted—Oh and Paint Salesman. Must have auto. Want man untrained in hard work with selling experience in small towns. Write Mitchell's, 2231 Junction Rd., Cleveland, O.

MITCHELL'S EYE SALVE

Helps WEAK SICK EYES

TIME HAD BROUGHT CHANGES

Aunt Jane Not Now Quite as Considerate as She Had Been in the Courtship Days.

In the days when Uncle Joe and Aunt Jane were courting they sat in the garden one night under a summer moon, silent and adoring.

"Joe, dear," suddenly said Aunt Jane at last, "I want to ask you something."

"Ask me anything, darling."

"Something is tickling my neck," she whispered. "If I let go one of your hands to drive it away would you mind my asking?"

Their home is now noted for its extreme neatness, and Uncle Joe has been thoroughly trained to keep it neat, how thoroughly is shown by the fact that on a recent afternoon he went into the kitchen to get a drink. For a moment Uncle Joe stood before the sink gazing at the shining faucets.

"Guess you've just washed up in the sink, ain't you?" he inquired at last.

"Yes, I have," she replied. "Why?"

"Well," exclaimed Uncle Joe, with a slight sigh, "I did think I'd relish a drink of water, but I guess I can get along without it."

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

To Honor Canadian Heroes.

Six thousand soldiers' graves, located in 1,200 cemeteries, scattered throughout Canada, are to be marked with suitable headstones by the Imperial war graves commission and will receive perpetual care. These are the graves of members of the Canadian expeditionary force and the royal air force who died in Canada on the way to or from the front, included among the number to be cared for are the graves of a few alien enemies who died while under internment during the war, and which, under the terms of the peace treaty, must be looked after.

SAVE SHOES AND STOCKINGS

Shoe with last—twice as long as you shake. Into your shoes ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the powder for the feet. It takes the friction from the shoe and gives quick relief to Corns, Bunions, Calluses, sore, aching, swollen, tender feet. Shake Allen's Foot-Ease into your shoes and enjoy the bliss of feet without an ache—Advertisement.

"Willing to Pay."

Two colored light teams were assembled and were about to start their game, but discovered one of their fielders missing. Their captain asked for someone from the crowd to fill the fielder's place. A tall gent said he had some experience, so they put him in the game. Everything went all right till it came his turn at bat, but after the newcomer had swung at the next pitched ball he connected with the next one and it went soaring over the fence. The crowd all began to yell "Run! Run!" But he didn't get it, and turning to the crowd he shouted: "Run nothing! I'll buy them another ball!"

One way to avoid even the appearance of evil is to dab the cat's face with jam.

The people who can do everything are the people who can do nothing.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

—The People Who Can Do Everything.

Help Wanted

WANTED: Male help over 18 for automobile machine shop and assembly work. Experience not necessary. Ideal living conditions in best resort

Suitable Gifts for any occasion

Ivory
Perfumes
Leather Goods
Fine Stationery
Toilet Articles

Quality

Service

Central Drug Store

THE NYAL STORE

CHRIS W. OLSEN, Prop'r
PHONE No. 1.

CRAWFORD AVALANCHE SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

One Year$2.00
Six Months1.00
Three Months50
Outside of Crawford county and Roscommon, per year.....$2.50

Entered as second class matter at the Postoffice, Grayling, Mich., under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879

O. P. Schumann, Editor and Proprietor

THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1922.

LOCAL NEWS

Prescriptions carefully compounded.
Central Drug Store.

Bring in your films today and get them tomorrow. Wingard Studio. tf.

Rasmus Hanson made a business trip to Manistee the first part of the week, and at present is in Detroit on a business mission.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Wythe, who have been residing in Ferndale near Royal Oak, arrived here yesterday and expect to remain here.

Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Curnalia and Bruno Curnalia of Roscommon were in Grayling Monday evening to attend the movie Way Down East.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLeod and daughter Miss Doris of Birchwood are here to attend the commencement exercises. They are guests at the Palmer home.

Everready flashlights, bulbs and batteries. Central Drug Store.

Earl Keeley left Thursday for Detroit on business.

Geo. N. Olson returned this afternoon from a visit to Detroit.

Logways Candy in boxes or bulk.
Central Drug Store.

Miss Anna Nelson was hostess to a party of the school teachers of the Grayling schools at her home Thursday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gothro of the Soo, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gothro of East Jordan were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gothro over Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. P. E. Bethardt left Monday for their home in Toledo, O., after a three weeks stay at Lake Margrethe. By the time they return in July, their cottage will be completed at the McIntyre resort.

Frank Michelson of Detroit arrived in Grayling Wednesday afternoon to open his cottage at Lake Margrethe. His son Nels Michelson arrived the day before, saying he could not wait another day for his father. Mrs. Michelson will arrive next week after which the family will again be domiciled in their pleasant summer home.

Way Down East, featuring Lillian Gish, presented at the Opera House last Sunday and Monday nights, was a fine treat to those who saw it. It is one of the best screen productions of the day. Through the production music was furnished by Clark's orchestra, which added greatly to the pleasure of the evening. Sunday and Monday nights Manager Olson will present Mary Pickford in "Little Lord Fauntleroy." This is another high class attraction and deserving of just as good attendance as was Way Down East.

Thermos bottles and lunch kits.
Central Drug Store.

Fishing tackle for lake or stream. Central Drug Store.

Children's sandals, skufflers, Mary Janes and oxfords at special prices, at E. J. Olson's.

Bernard K. Means and bride of Kenneth O. who have been honeymoon at Lake Margrethe, will return tomorrow to their home. They occupied the Gilson cottage at the McIntyre resort.

Miss Josephine Wescott, who has taught the first and second grades of the South Side school for the past two years, was the guest of honor at a dinner party given by Miss Ruth Brenner at her home last Sunday afternoon. Miss Wescott will not return next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Baumgras of Lansing are again at the Military Reservation driving through and arriving Friday. Mr. Baumgras is busy getting things in readiness for the camp of commissioned and non-commissioned officers that will convene Sunday and last for four days.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McNeal have been entertaining their sister, Mrs. E.
S. Clouser and daughter Eva of Sand Lake, Mich., and Mr. Timothy Rumsey of Los Angeles, Calif. They returned to Sand Lake today. Mr. Mc-Neal driving them through in his auto. He will return after a few days visit.

The many friends of J. C. Burton are deeply concerned over his condition, and we are glad to state that Mrs. Burton returned from Detroit this morning and reported him on the gain. He is at Harper Hospital and attending physicians, who are some of the best to be had in that city have succeeded in gaining a passage through the esophagus, so that now Mr. Burton is able to receive nourishment. However, physicians have not yet determined the direct cause of his illness. His daughter, Mrs. Harry Simpson is still with him.

We are indeed sorry to have to report the death of Mrs. J. M. Bunting at her home in Milford last Sunday by suicide. The family were residents of Grayling for several years, moving to Milford about two years ago. Many will recall the tragic death of Mr.
Bunting which occurred while working for the Grayling Telephone company when he came into contact with a live electric light wire. The parents are survived by three daughters Misses Mildred, Marie and Laura all of whom have the sympathy of a large circle of old Grayling friends and acquaintances.

Report was received Monday of the death of Mrs. S. L. Mead which occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Woods in Detroit Saturday night at 11:30 o'clock, caused from cancer. Her age was 74 years.
Mr. and Mrs. Mead were residents of Grayling a number of years while
Mr. Mead was a salesman for Salling Hanson company of this city, and many will remember them. They left Grayling about five years ago. Mrs.
Mead was an estimable lady and was very much devoted to her family and home. She is the mother of L. M.
Mead of this city, who left Monday to be in attendance at the funeral which was held Wednesday at Owosso. Old friends and acquaintances will be sorry to learn of her passing away.

Get your automobile insured with the Palmer Insurance Agency, at the Avalanche office.

Large assortment of chamois and sponges for your automobile.
Central Drug Store.

See the latest line of wedding invitations and announcements, at the Avalanche office.

MANY KILLED WHEN GALE HITS GOTHAM

WIND STORM SWEEPS PLEASURE
PLACE AND CONTINUES UP
EAST COAST.

CROWD CAUGHT IN SMALL BOATS

Frantic Efforts Made to Reach Safety
But 38 are Drowned; Ferris, Wheel Wrecked.

New York—A violent storm, accompanied by shifting winds that reached a velocity of 88 miles an hour, took the lives of 57 persons, injured more than 100 and caused enormous property loss in the metropolitan section late Sunday.

Five persons were killed and more than 40 hurt when the wind caught a huge Ferris wheel at a Coney Island amusement park and crushed it to the ground.

A woman and her seven-year-old daughter were crushed to death and several other persons injured when an oak tree blown by the wind crashed through the roof of the crowded dining room of the Red Lion inn, on Boston post road, carrying with it an old fashioned stone chimney.

Miss Edna Smith, 17, walking with a companion along the reservoir road at Ossining, was blown into the water and drowned.

Charles Emerson, New Rochelle clothing manufacturer, was rowing in Echo Bay with his wife and three children when the storm broke. He managed to row to shore, then died from a heart attack.

A tree fell across a party of motorists seeking shelter on the Brookville road, near Locust Valley, Long Island, killing Larry Halleran, of Oyster Bay, and seriously injuring his three male companions.

Concetti Baslatas and his 10-year-old son, Anthony, of Mount Vernon, were killed when a tree, under which they had found shelter in the Bronx was struck by lightning.

Two men were killed in Newark, N. J., when they came in contact with electric wires, torn down by the wind.

A massive, decayed tree on the New York Westchester County line at Mt. Vernon fell, crushing to death
Mrs. Cassio Cavasale and her infant son.

Moe Ruskin, one of a party of canoeists in Echo Bay, was drowned.
Three other members of the party swam to shore after the canoe capsized.

CONSCIENCE TO GUIDE NO MORE

Chicago Finds It Necessary to Adopt Stringent Beach Rules.

Chicago—Let your conscience be your guide—but not as to bathing suits; for those, read the city ordinance.

This was the dictum of Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Burkhardt, on the eve of the formal opening of bathing beaches.

"We tied the conscience rule once," said the commissioner. "As a result of that experiment the city ordinance this year will govern bathing suits. The conscience of some habitués of the beaches is a trifle too elastic."

GRAIN RUST WAR IS ARRANGED

State To Spend $350,000 Appropriation for Active Campaign.

East Lansing—Active warfare against the common barberry bush, spread of black stem rust, will be opened July 1, by the department of agriculture.

Working under a federal appropriation of $350,000 and directed by Walter F. Reddy, of East Lansing, state leader of barberry eradication, nine teams of experts, the shock troops of the campaign against the grain farmer's worst enemy, will begin on a larger scale than ever before their farm-to-farm survey of the state.

MAROONED AVIATOR IS RESCUED

Cadet Fights Hunger and Sickness for 40 Hours After Wreck.

Arcadia, Fla.—Tired by a panther, devoured by mosquitoes, his clothes torn to tatters by the sawgrass of the Florida swamps; without food for nearly 40 hours—these were among the experiences of Cadet Raymond White, Carlstrom Field aviator, whose plane crashed into the wilds of southeastern Lee county June 8. He was brought back to the flying field June 10 in one of the planes that had been searching the Everglades since his disappearance was reported.

Rum Chaser to Jacksonville, Fla.
Baltimore, Md.—The rum chaser Mehelatos, of the "prohibition navy," will be transferred from Norfolk, Va., to Jacksonville, Fla. This vessel, which was the first on duty out of New York, has been operating from Norfolk since her departure from Baltimore several days ago. The Mehelatos is the third of the "navy" vessels sent to Jacksonville. Attention of the prohibition forces is running from the Bahamas to the cause of the rum runner.

THE HOME OF THE SOUL

In olden times, it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never so completely used up as when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets.
They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its function naturally. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter.

LOVELLS NEWS.

Mrs. P. F. H. Morley and children of Saginaw are enjoying "The Lodge" for a while.

Dr. Whittier and wife of Detroit are enjoying an outing, fishing on the North Branch. They are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kennedy.

Mrs. Jack Moon is visiting in Detroit.

Mrs. Jaa. Husted is enjoying a visit from her daughter, Elizabeth Richardson of East Branch, who will spend part of her vacation in Lovells.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Nash of Kenosha are again at their cabin on the North Branch.

The dance Saturday evening was a success and a good time enjoyed by all. The music was furnished by Clark's Orchestra of Grayling.

The ball game Sunday between Lewiston and Lovells was won by the latter by a score of 13 to 2.

Ruth Stillwagon is home after a very successful year of school at West Branch.

Miss Margaret Husted of West Branch spent a few days with relatives in Lovells.

Miss Margaret Douglas entertained
the Senior Class of West Branch High at her home in Lovells from Saturday until Tuesday, they having motored from West Branch. They were chaperoned by two of the teachers, Prof. Swann and Miss Prevost. All reported having one glorious time.

UNCLE HANK

Judge! from appearances, I should say th' more prominent a doctor becomes, th' duller his razor gets.

WHY SUFFER FROM RHEUMATISM.

Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment? The pain may be relieved by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, which makes sleeping possible, and the treatment means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism.

WANTS

Advertisements will be accepted under this heading at the rate of 5 cents per line. No
adv. taken for less than 25 cts.
There are about six words to the line.
SEND MONEY WITH ORDER

HOUSE FOR SALE—INQUIRE OF

Adolph Peterson, Phone 461.

WANTED—FORTY TO ONE HUNdred acres wooded land situated on a large lake or traversed by a stream. A suitable building site for a summer cottage. State number of acres, price and if possible send pictures. A. G. Collins, 2914 Bewick Ave., Detroit, Michigan.

6-15-4.

FOR SALE—HOUSE AND TWO

lots and garage on Ogema St.
Inquire of J. A. Holliday. Phone
No. 1162.

FOR SALE—LOT ON CORNER OF

Norway and Ogema, size 60x120 feet. Specially low price for prompt buyer. Address C. W. Vining, 505 Carter Bldg., Jackson, Michigan.
6-15-2.

WANTED—NIGHT COOK, ONE

able to do baking. City Restaurant. Frank LaMotte, Prop. 1 wk.
Strayed to my home on my east of Grayling. Two yearling heifers, Sunday morning, June 4.
Harley Diltz. Phone 2L-38 on 65.

FOR SALE—LADY'S SADDLE.

Black model. O. A. Hilton. Phone 98.

WANTED—GIRL OR BOY AT THE

Cody Restaurant.

LOST—A WHITE IVORY HAND- PAINTED BUGGY CLAMP ON Ce-der street, Tuesday night. Kindly return to Mrs. Ollie McLeod.

LOST—A PAIR OF LADIES OXfords and hose from auto. Finder kindly leave with Mrs. McDonald at the Grayling Dairy Products Market, or at this office. 6-8-1.

FOR SALE—SEVERAL ARTICLES of furniture. Inquire of Mrs. G. P.

Berg. 6-8-1.

LOST—TWO TIRE CLAMPS OR

wedges. Also wrench for tightening same. Tuesday afternoon, June 5, between the Deckrow Plumbing shop and Connors' store. Finder please notify Mrs. John Stephan or leave at Avalanche Office.

FOR SALE—COTTAGE AT LAKE

Margrethe, also 16 passenger launch, also reasonable price.
Inquire of Len Colton, Grayling, tf.

HILTON

Phone 98

Phone 98

Advise me as to your household needs. I will be pleased to buy articles for your inspection during my visit at the Grand Rapids Furniture Exposition.

HILTON

Home Service Furniture Dealer.

In the old McKay House, 2 Blocks North of Shoppesagon Inn
GRAYLING, MICHIGAN

NOW THE GREATEST AUTOMOBILE VALUE IN AMERICA

Today's Overland: 25 miles to the gallon; all-steel body; baked enamel finish; 130-inch spring base

IT TAKES really great engineering to turn out a really great car at a price as low as

Today's Overland
$550

L. o. b. Toledo
TOURING...$550
ROADSTER...550
COUPE...550
SEDAN...550

M. A. ATKINSON, Dealer
GRAYLING, MICHIGAN

Fordson

THE UNIVERSAL TRACTOR

Henry Ford

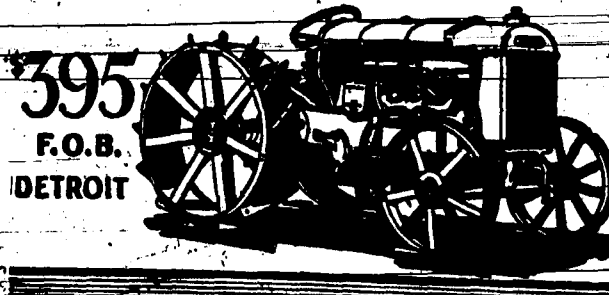

HENRY FORD was 35 years getting ready for the new price on the Fordson. He started as a farm boy, planning to get rid of the drudgery, long hours and low money return that has always faced the farmer.

He wanted to furnish you with a tractor that would not only do your work better and faster, but at lower costs —and the 170,000 Fordsons now in use have proved that he has accomplished these things.

What you get in the Fordson for $395 f. o. b. Detroit is the greatest farm power unit ever offered.

Let us show you how a Fordson will cut farm costs, increase your bank account and take the drudgery out of farm work. Write, phone or call.

Geo. Burke, Dealer

395
F.O.B.
DETROIT

When you look at a 30 x 3 1/2 USCO
at $ 10.90

OUR tire dealer is naturally enthusiastic when he shows
you the 30x3 1/2
USCO at $10.90.

To him USCO has always represented a tire value that he felt more than justified in offering his customers.

At the $10.90 price he can hardly be blamed for putting it to the front as the value he would most like to be remembered by.

This much to keep in mind—

United States Tires
are Good Tires

Copyright
U. S. Tire Co.

USCO has always sold as a quality tire of known standards and performance.

Today at $10.90 it fixes the worth of your tire dollar at a new maximum by reason of its own distinguished values.

30x3 1/2

USCO
$10.90

No War-Tax charged

United States Tires
United States Rubber Company

The Closest and Carefullest Inspection of the World's Best Tires

Where You Can Buy
U. S. Tires

Burke's Garage and Hans R. Nelson's

it's bathing time

—and the water's fine!

BOYS, GIRLS and GROWN-UPS will find in our store the style of Bathing Caps exactly suited to their desire.

For amateur swimmers we have the "Safety Swimmers." We also have for play, water balls in assorted sizes.

Come in and look our line over. Prices to suit everyone.

PHONE 18

M. N. Lewis

DRUGGIST & BOOKSELLER

THE GRAYLING STORE

LOCAL NEWS

THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1922.

Cleaner for sport oxfords and all other shoes at E. J. Olson's.

Mrs. C. L. Smith returned home Saturday from Detroit where she had been visiting several weeks.

Chamois and sponges for your auto at the Central Drug Store.

James Reynolds who has been employed in Richmond, Va., returned home Monday and will remain here permanently.

Mrs. Andy Larson and children of Johannesburg spent a few days last week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Hans Petersen.

The large and modern Tailor Laboratories at Dayton, Ohio, occupy 60,000 square feet of floor space. A. M. Lewis, druggist.

Mose Woods who has been employed in Detroit is home again and has resumed work at the Grayling Dowel & Tie Plug Co.

More people have taken Tanlac and praised it than any other medicine in the world. There's one reason only. A. M. Lewis, druggist.

Charles Daugherty expects to leave Saturday for his home in Augres after a few weeks visit with his mother, Mrs. Minnie Daugherty.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Rase motored from Johannesburg and visited at the home of the latter's parents Mr. and Mrs. Lars Nelson over Sunday.

Mrs. Ernest J. Duval and daughter Margaret Lorraine returned Friday morning from a three weeks visit in Bay City and Flint with friends.

Mac Diarmida candy, famed for freshness. Central Drug Store.

Mrs. Andrew Balhoff of Saginaw is visiting her daughter Mrs. P. P. Mahoney.

Edmond's Foot-Fitters are the greatest shoe value in America. Get them at E. J. Olson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baldwin are entertaining a party of relatives at their home on the South side.

Mrs. Benton Jorgenson has gone to Detroit to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bowman for a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Joseph had as their guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rockwell of Gaylord, and Miss Ruth Ryan of Petoskey.

Mrs. A. L. Voorhees and Mrs. Elizabeth Heenan who have been guests of their sister Mrs. Ethel Matson left Tuesday to visit Miss Janet Matson at Flint, and other places.

Paint up now, a little touch here and there will do wonders. Read our advertisement. We also have eight shades of our best house paints on sale at $2.65 per gal. Sorenson Bros.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Roberts returned home Monday from their honeymoon trip to Detroit and are at home to their friends at the home of the latter's parents Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Trudeau Sr. on Peninsular Ave.

The Bluebird Girls of the Michigan Memorial church are planning on spending this week-end at the Allendale cottage at Lake Margrethe. Mrs. James H. Wingard, their Sunday school teacher will chaperone the party.

Miss Edna Taylor came home yesterday morning from Detroit to attend the graduation exercises of the Grayling High school, her sister Miss Ruth Taylor, and brother Oscar Taylor being members of this year's class.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Olson and daughter Rhoda Marion motored from East Jordan and were guests for a few days of the former's parents Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Olson. Mr. Olson conducts a moving picture show in East Jordan.

Harvey Wheeler is carrying his left hand in a sling, having sprained his wrist, while doing some heavy lifting.

Samuel Rasmussen of Detroit was in Grayling Sunday, coming to visit his mother, Mrs. Rasmus Rasmussen who is ill.

The members of the graduation class enjoyed a day's outing at Lake Margrethe Tuesday, guests at the Lewis cottage.

Mrs. C. E. Doty left this afternoon for Owensboro, Ky. to visit her parents for several weeks. She was accompanied by her son Richard.

Miss Hazelle Haupris of Chicago, who is resorting at Higgins Lake for the summer spent the week end as the guest of Miss Lola Klingensmith.

Mrs. R. L. Rife of Cheboygan arrived yesterday afternoon to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Lands and family. Mrs. Rife is the mother of Mr. Lands.

Mrs. Mary Cameron, mother of Mrs. Charles O. McCullough arrived in the city this week from Shawano, Wisconsin, to spend the summer with her daughter and family.

Miss Lola Klingensmith has resumed her position in the Peterson grocery after a vacation spent at Higgins Lake, as the guest of Miss Hazelle Haupris of Chicago.

Base ball next Saturday and Sunday, Grayling vs. Bay City K. of C. Games called at 3:00 sharp. Admission 50 and 25c. Fans like thrills and these games will be full of 'em.

Miss Augusta Kraus spent the week-end in Detroit and on her return Monday was accompanied by her niece little Arlene Pollock of Detroit, who came for her annual visit at the Kraus home.

Mrs. Angus McPhoe and niece Miss Collet Smith left Friday for West Branch where they were joined by the latter's mother, Mrs. Frank Smith and the party went on to Saginaw to spend a couple of days.

The AVALANCHE has installed an electric motor for power. This is a wonderful improvement over a gas line engine and is recognized everywhere as the ideal power. The motor was purchased thru F. R. Decker and Son.

Victor Salling returned Monday from a two weeks visit in Detroit where with Mrs. Salling they were guests of the Spencer Meistrup family, whom they accompanied home. Mrs. Salling remained for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Ketsbeck, who visited at the home of their son Willis and family, returned Saturday to their home in Kalkaska. Mr. Ketsbeck had been here consulting physicians and Mrs. Ketsbeck joined him here on Thursday.

The friends of Miss Martha Stillwagon will be pleased to know of her recent success she having won the 1st prize in the Declamation contest given by the Soronian Society of Olivet College. The prize was a ring bearing the Soronian emblem.

Miss Mabel Brasie, took quite suddenly ill while at her work in the Emil Kraus store last Friday and is now at Mercy Hospital. Her sister Mrs. Robert Carrell of Marietta arrived here Tuesday owing to her illness. An operation was found necessary, which was performed this morning.

Frank Smith was in the city last Friday, returning in the afternoon to West Branch accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Frank Tetu, who went to be in attendance at an Alumni ball and banquet, she being a member of the Alumni of the West Branch schools.

Miss Margaret Richards riding a bicycle Tuesday afternoon ran into a moving auto in front of the Grayling Mercantile Co. store. She was thrown to the ground and received some bad bruises on her limbs. The axle of the bicycle was broken, and the wheel otherwise damaged. The girl is fortunate that she was not more seriously injured.

In attendance at an alumni picnic in Onaway will be Dr. Don M. Howell, a member of the graduating class of the Onaway high school of '08. Also Mrs. C. H. Peterson, who graduated with the class of '17. A party including Dr. and Mrs. Howell, Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. Clarence Brown will motor over this afternoon, the picnic taking place tomorrow.

Miss Margaret Douglas, who is a member of this year's graduating class of the West Branch High school gave a house party for her class over the week-end at her home in Lovells, the North Branch Outing Club. Mr. Swen, superintendent of schools of West Branch and Miss Estella Prevost chaperoned the party. The trip was made by motor and a most delightful time was had.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Brown and son Roy will leave the last of this week for Ann Arbor to attend the Commencement exercises at the U. of M., their son John D. Brown, being a graduate of this year's class, from the department of Chemical Engineering. The young man is a graduate of Grayling High School and his many friends will be highly pleased to learn that he has completed the four year course at the University. The exercises begin Sunday evening.

Tuesday afternoon the members of the It Suits Us "500" club met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Havens where automobiles conveyed them to the beautiful summer home of Miss Jane Ingley at Lake Margrethe. 12 ladies were present forming three tables of 500 and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. Wm. Havens and Mrs. Charles Schreck. Mrs. Andrew Balhoff of Saginaw, Mrs. Earl Dawson and Mrs. Harry Kane were guests of the club. A delicious lunch was served at 6 o'clock the ladies returning to the city later in the evening.

For the second time this season some thief has robbed the jeweler at the school and some of the plants. The first time your plants were deliberately dug up and taken away. Monday morning there were several more plants missing. Why not offer a substantial reward for the discovery and conviction of the people about town who will do these things, and when found deal with them to the fullest extent of the law? Somebody will know who it is and good liberal offers will get them to tell. We believe such treatment will put a stop to such practices as robbing flower beds.

Most complete line of canvas shoes at special prices. E. J. Olson.

Miss Judith Bailey is visiting relatives in Vassar, leaving last week.

Millers Bathing Caps and rubber goods. Central Drug Store.

Mrs. John Zeder and son left Tuesday for Bay City to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Gillett motored to Saginaw Thursday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Spencer of Lovells were in the city Monday on business.

Gordon Davidson was home from Bay City over the week-end visiting his family.

Mrs. Frank Karnes and son Billy are spending the week in Flint visiting friends.

Mrs. Carl Peterson and son Carl spent a few days last week at the Soo, visiting relatives.

Miss Maude Tetu arrived home from Bay City Saturday afternoon to enjoy a visit at her home here.

Walter Cowell is unable to be on the job in his tonsorial parlor, owing to an infection in his right hand.

A. M. Lewis went to Saginaw Tuesday to drive back his new Sport Model Buick, which he purchased recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Peterson of Johannesburg enjoyed a visit with relatives and friends in Grayling Sunday.

Mrs. David White left Tuesday night for Ann Arbor where she will consult specialists regarding her health.

Ben Yoder and Burton Mitchell and their wives visited with friends in West Branch Sunday, making the trip by auto.

Fred Edwards who has been attending the school for the deaf and dumb at Flint is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards for the summer.

A daughter, Patricia Margaret was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodruff, Jr., of Detroit on June 2nd. Mr. Woodruff was a former resident of Grayling.

Mrs. H. Joseph expects to leave this week for Milwaukee, owing to the illness of her two grandchildren, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fredman, who reside there.

Tony Noa of Gaylord has signed up to pitch for the Grayling team this year. He is considered to be one of the best moundmen in the state outside of organized league teams.

Mrs. Harry Connine and daughter Mary Gretchen have returned to their home in Detroit after a pleasant visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Connine for a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Brand and Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Reynolds who had been stopping for a couple of weeks at one of the Douglas cottages at Lovells, have returned to their home in Detroit.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Fox at their home in Dallas, Texas, a six pound daughter, Tuesday, May 13. Mrs. Fox was formerly Miss Floss Miller of Gladwin and a sister of Mrs. G. A. Canfield of this city.

There will be a dance for the benefit of the Frederic High School at the Opera House at Frederic, next Saturday night, June 17. Victrola music, rendering the most popular and favorite dance selections. Everyone cordially invited. Bill 75c.

Clarence Johnson pitched a game of base ball for East Jordan last Sunday against the Boyne City team. The score was 8-4 in favor of Boyne City. Each team made five hits. This was the first game of the season for East Jordan and the players had had no practice.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Richards of Dayton, Ohio, and Grayling Wednesday morning and left at one of their cozy summer homes at Lake Margrethe. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lydick, also of Dayton, who will spend some time with them and enjoy the pleasures and comforts of the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rasmussen and two children and the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Rasmussen enjoyed a motor trip to Johannesburg Sunday. Also Paul Ziebell and family and the Misses Hum spent the day in Johannesburg. Other Johannesburgers were Mr. and Mrs. Thorold Boesen and Mrs. Walter Hanson and two children.

C. C. Fink is in the city for about ten days, part of which time he will spend at his farm in Maple Forest on which he is having a new home erected. Mr. and Mrs. Fink have been in Columbus, Ohio, during the winter, but on leaving here Mr. Fink will go to Grand Rapids where they will be for the summer. He is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Shaw while in Grayling.

John Cook returned Wednesday from attending an annual convention of members of the Danish Lutheran churches of America held in Chicago. He also spent a few days in Detroit with Mrs. Cook, who during her visit with relatives in that city, was taken with a paralytic stroke in one of her arms and who is under the care of a physician. This is the second attack of this kind that Mrs. Cook has had.

The games of base ball to be played in Grayling next Sunday will no doubt be some of the snappiest to be seen here this season, as the fast K. of C's of Bay City are scheduled to be here—Saturday and Sunday, June 17 and 18. Some fine games of ball were played between Grayling and this club last season on the home diamond and this year they are ranked as the best amateur team in the state. The games at both places will enjoy them and the local club needs your support. Games called at 3:00. Admission 50 and 25c.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sorenson and Martha Sorenson, and their little granddaughter Della Mae Robinson, all motored over from Michigan last Friday to visit for a few days with relatives and friends. Mr. Sorenson has sold the general store he has conducted in Michelson for a number of years to J. F. VanNatter, of Michelson, the latter who has been book-keeper for the Michelson Lumber Company for the past ten years. Mr. and Mrs. Sorenson have rented a cottage at Houghton Lake, where they will spend the summer.

It is a pleasure to sell Tanlac because those who buy it come back and praise it. A. M. Lewis, druggist.

For Ten Days!

A Radical Sale of MENS SUITS at 20% off

Every suit included (except Palm Beaches) in this 20 percent off sale

$50 now	$40	Kuppenheimer,	$30 now	$24
45 now	36	Styleplus and	25 now	20
40 now	32	other well-	20 now	16
35 now	28	known makes,	15 now	12

75 pairs Men's Brown Calf Shoes, English-toe, values up to $8.00

Choice at $5.00.

These are splendid, all-leather shoes, Goodyear welts and are wonderful values at this price.

LADIES

Choice of all Suits and Coats in a special 20% Off Sale

Every Garment is included.

White Oxford season is here—complete showing of styles for men and women.

Straw Hats for men—new styles $1.50 and up. Season's open!

Grayling Mercantile Co.

The Quality Store.

Prescriptions carefully compounded Central Drug Store.

$5.00 REWARD.

Call and look over our shoe bargains for men and boys at E. J. Olson's.

Al Cripps, who went to Detroit some time ago and was employed in the Ford Motor plant, has returned, his health not permitting him to keep on with the work.

Mrs. James Wingard returned Sunday from Clare, the Clyde Gates family bringing her home by auto. The party left Clare Saturday night, but they had not gone far when a terrible electrical storm overtook them, and a loud burst made the roads impassable. They were about thirty miles from Clare when they turned back to wait until the next day to make the trip.

Next Sunday morning at St. Mary's church, a class of boys and girls, will receive their first holy communion. This will be at the eight o'clock mass, which will be a high mass. The children have been under going the usual course of instruction for some time preparatory for the occasion under the supervision of Fr. A. O. Bosler, pastor of the church. On Monday evening the rites of confirmation will be administered. Bishop E. D. Kelley of the Grand Rapids diocese, will be here to officiate.

Mrs. Willis H. Ketsbeck nicely entertained the None Such "500" club at her home Tuesday afternoon. The following ladies were guests of the club: Mrs. Holger Hanson, Mrs. Harvey Wheeler, Mrs. Herbert Gothro and Mrs. Ben Delamater. Two prizes were given for the highest scores and likewise two consolations prizes were awarded. Mrs. Joseph Kernosky and Mrs. Delamater captured highest honors and Mrs. J. A. Holtday and Mrs. Gothro received consolations. Lunch was enjoyed after cards.

At Last! A Face Powder that really stays on.

NYLOTIS Face Powder DeLuxe

spreads evenly on the face and possesses those ethering qualities so much desired in a face powder. It is pleasantly perfumed. Pink White Brunette

CENTRAL DRUG STORE

Boys are damaging the property of the Base Ball grounds that has taken many a dollar to fix. A reward of $5.00 will be given for information leading to arrest of the bad boys that go up there and destroy property that don't belong to them. I ask some of the parents of Grayling to talk to their boys, not to do that, and if caught doing damage the parents will be held responsible.

M. Brenner, Mgr. City Base Ball Club.

MAKE APPLICATION TO ATTEND HIGH SCHOOL BEFORE JUNE 20.

Students who expect to attend high school next year please remember that application to your district board for tuition must be made on or before the fourth Monday of June. Comm'r of Schools, John T. Payne.

Deviled Spanish Green Olives

Here's a little hors d'oeuvre that may be prepared in a few minutes. It's novel and tasty. The family will enjoy it, and so will the guests. It's one of those "surprise" appetizers that labels your dinner "unique and charming."

Put large green olives and fill with the yolk of hard-boiled eggs mixed to a paste with a little butter. Lay an olive on a strip of bacon, sprinkle with paprika and a tiny pinch of mustard, roll up, fasten with toothpick and broil just long enough to crisp the bacon. Serve on toast fingers.

INTERIOR PAINTS At Reduced Prices

Look this list over carefully; it will be to your benefit. The merchandise is strictly first class and you save from 25 to 50 per cent in your purchase.

VERANDA FLOOR PAINT		CHINA LAC
Half gallons $1.50.		Half Pints 30c.
Gallons $2.50		Pints 50c.
Tan.	Olive	Quarts 75c.
		Half Gallons $1.40
GLOSS INTERIOR PAINTS		Cherry	Mandarin Yellow
Half pints 30c.		White Gloss	Black Gloss
Pints 55c.			Black Flat
Half gallons $1.75.		PITCAIRN COL. VARNISH
Gallons $3.45.		Half Pints 30c.
Lavender	Olive Gray	Pints 50c.
Light Olive	Buff
Black			Vernal Green

SORENSEN BROS.

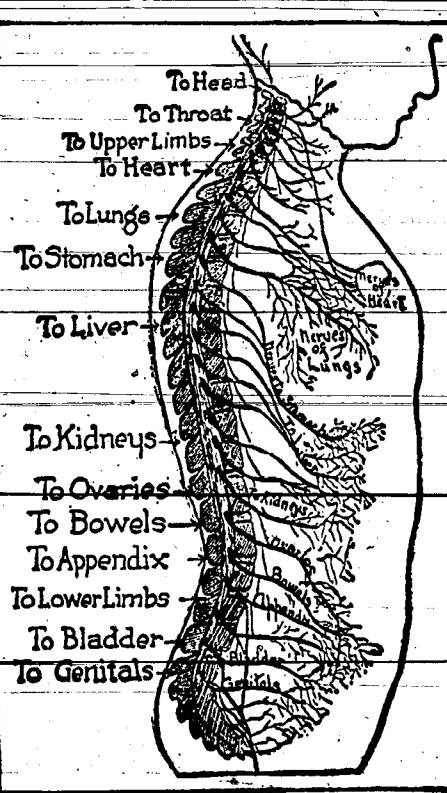

The Home of Dependable Furniture.

When Headaches are Conquered

HEALTH TALK BY

KELDSSEN & KELDSSEN, Chiropractors.

When headaches are conquered and good health returns the woman of many complaints and little charm becomes a person of vivacity and happiness.

The transformation is a natural one and yet many sufferers from nervous headaches have come to believe health is not for them.

Headaches are of various kinds, but the nervous headache—usually is accompanied by nausea and vomiting with evidence of liver and stomach disorder. Where the case is chronic rather than one due to temporary over-eating there is certain to be found a spinal condition making Chiropractic spinal adjustments a necessity if the cause of the ailment is to be removed and any degree of good health obtained.

Headache and Nervousness Gone.

"For three years I suffered with bad sick headaches and nervousness. Thanks to Chiropractic my headaches and nervousness have left me entirely." Mrs. Mary E. Baily, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1316H.

When Your Health May Start Depends On When You Call Phone 344 For An Appointment.

KELDSSEN & KELDSSEN

REGISTERED

CHIROPRACTORS

Office over Salling-Hanson Co. Hardware Store.

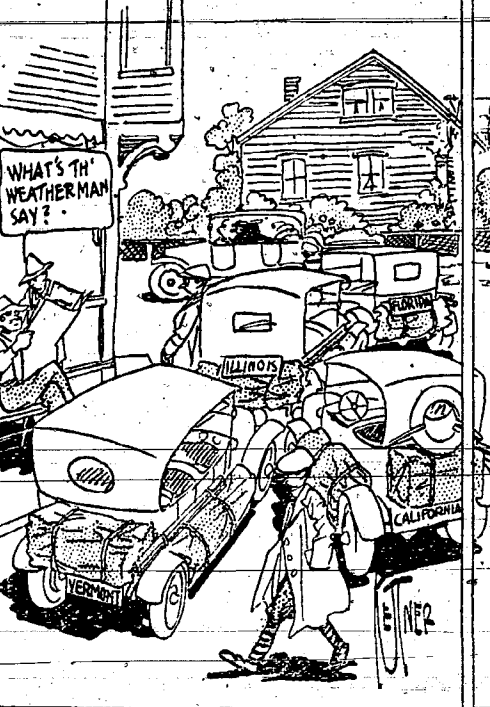

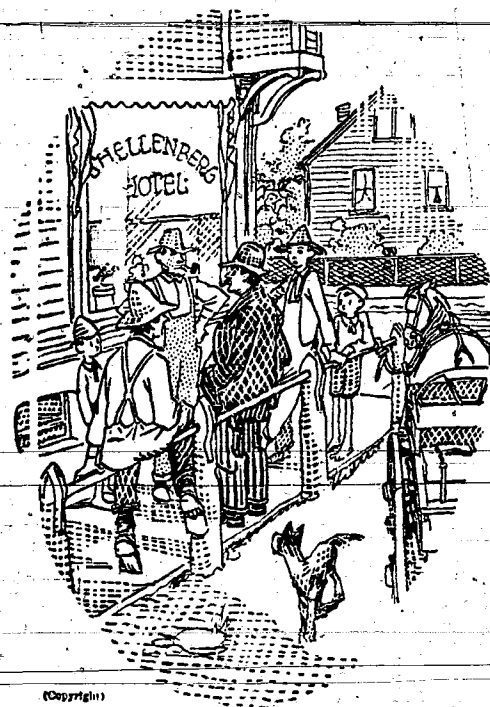

GRAYLING, MICH.

OUR COMIC SECTION

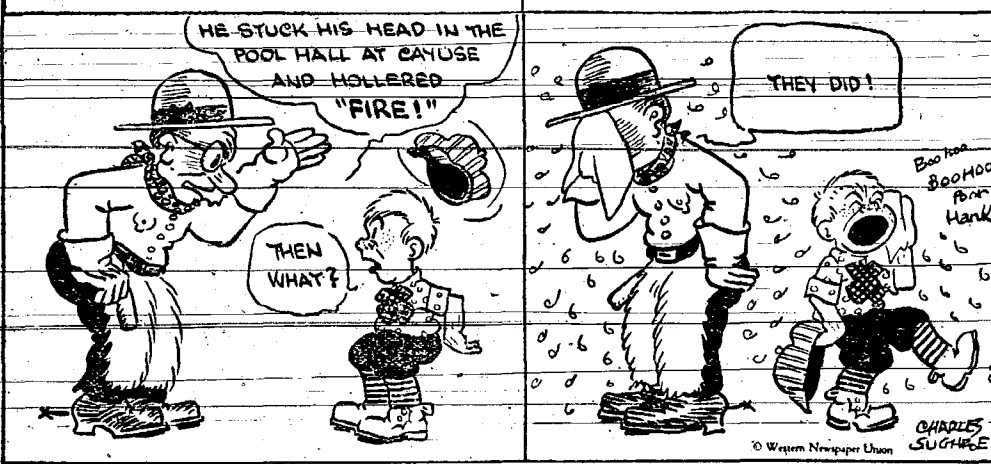

R'member

WHEN A STRANGER FROM A NEIGHBORING COUNTY WOULD CREATE A LOT OF INTEREST - AND

NOW

Atlas, Poor Hank!

A Willing Helper

AVERAGE

The law of averages is mathematically in its accuracy. When a scientifically managed chain store system wants to open a new shop, it has "clockers" count the passing crowds, to learn what location has the most traffic showing past its doors. It is definitely known that a set percentage of the passers-by will turn into the new store. This is the law of averages—that, while a thing may not happen repeatedly, it will show up, on the average, every so often. Gamblers use the law of averages, figuring systems to beat the bank at Monte Carlo. It is a law that should be taken into consideration in all proposed undertakings.

All About Kisses.

Kisses are the language of love, or perhaps, it would be truer to say, its secret code. Remains could be written about the psych-logy of a kiss and yet nothing be explained, for the kiss is its own explanation, and as one star differs from another in glory, so no two kisses are alike. There are those that are bought and sold, wretched masks held before the indignant face of love; and there are sophisticated kisses, the part of a game both understood and the betrothal kiss, sanctified already by the shadow of the altar; also the sudden, snatched kiss, the kiss of mystery that instantly alters life, when it is not a mere farcical interlude. — From "His Grace Gives Notice," by Lady Trowbridge.

THE HOME RADIO

How to Make and Use It — By A. HYATT VERRILL

RADIO AN OUTGROWTH OF THE WAR

We usually think of the great war as a disaster and as having done an incalculable amount of harm to the world and its people, but it is very doubtful if the war did as much harm as good. Within the few years it lasted it resulted in immense benefits to mankind in the tremendous discoveries, improvements and advancement of medicine, surgery, chemistry, aeronautics, mechanics, engineering, metallurgy and wireless communication, and while the toll of life, the destruction of property, the devastation of lands, the loss of art and the bankruptcy of nations are all temporary, and will soon be replaced and forgotten, the scientific progress and discoveries, which were a direct result of the war, will endure forever and will continue to benefit mankind.

Of all the arts and sciences which received an unprecedented impetus by the war, none is of greater interest or has a more far-reaching effect to the average person than radio telephony. Before the war wireless telephony was well established, universally used and a fairly exact and well-understood science; but wireless telephony was scarcely more than a dream—a visionary, uncertain thing; complicated, little understood and literally in its infancy. But today, so incredibly rapid have been the strides made in the development of this science, that wireless telephony is an every-day affair; a simple, easily understood thing—far simpler than telegraphy—and in constant use, not only commercially, but by countless thousands of amateurs. In a way, however, the war merely launched practical radio telephony on its career and far greater progress has been made in commercializing, simplifying and cheapening it within the past four months—October to February, 1921—than within the previous six years. Indeed, so rapid has been its advancement, that it seems to have come upon us almost overnight, and within a few short weeks it has leaped from an obscure, scientific curiosity to an almost universally used means of entertainment and profit.

Today thousands of more boys are using wireless telephones—many of the instruments made by the boys themselves—and in department stores, electrical supply stores and elsewhere seek for receiving sets that can be purchased for a few dollars. From various stations, music, crop reports, market reports, weather reports, speeches, news, plays, stories, athletic time, racing and baseball returns, shipping news and countless other interesting matters are sent broadcast through the air, free to anyone who possesses a wireless telephone receiving set. Thus, the farmer, miles from the nearest town, the sailor at sea, passengers on ships, guests in hotels, crowds about bulletin boards and people in their own homes can listen to the voices of famous men, the music of bands and orchestras, the singing of famous operatic stars, the dialogues of plays and countless other things, from far-distant points and as clearly and plainly as though no space intervened.

Truly, radio telephony is the great modern miracle; a dream more fantastic and fairy-like than the Arabian Nights; a more marvelous actuality than the fabulous lamp of Aladdin or the flying carpet, and, best of all, it is within the reach of everyone, while the "music in the air" is free to all who care to listen in.

It is certainly a strange, almost incredible thing to think that the air about us, even within our dwellings, is constantly filled with sounds, voices, music, messages and songs which are as inaudible as they are invisible, but which may be caught and delivered to our ears by means of a few wires and batteries and a few appliances, so simple that even a child may use them.

And the limit is far from being reached. Within a few years or even months, the range of wireless telephony will be increased by hundreds or even thousands of miles; airplanes or aeroplanes will be entirely done away with and the instruments for sending and receiving will be so improved, simplified and reduced that one may carry them in one's pocket, for while radio telephony has already become highly perfected, widely used and absolutely practical, yet it is still hardly out of its infancy and no man may profess what its future may be.

PRINCIPLES OF WIRELESS TRANSMISSION

Before attempting to explain the functions and the principles of the radio telephones, or describing how to make, use and operate them, it is necessary to understand something of the underlying principles and fundamental laws of wireless transmission.

It is not, however, necessary to enter into a long discussion on the theories and principles of electricity or physics which enter into the subject, but merely to illustrate and make clear a few important and salient laws, causes and results which make the transmission of sounds possible without the use of wires between the sending and receiving instruments.

The first and most important principle of all radio transmission is the fact that all our atmosphere is constantly disturbed by vibrations of electric forces, or, as we may call them for the sake of simplicity, waves. We are accustomed to think of the atmosphere about us as a more or less uniform substance which we call air, but in reality the air or atmosphere, space, and in fact all solids as well as are pervaded by an invisible, odorless, and almost weightless but exceedingly elastic substance known as ether or luminiferous ether. It is by means of this ether that all heat, light, electricity, etc., are transmitted, in the form of waves or vibrations. Light and heat waves have been known to science for a long time, but it is only within comparatively recent years that man has learned that electric or electromagnetic waves also travel through the ether, and it was through this discovery, and by means of these waves, that wireless telegraphy and telephony became possible. In a way, the electromagnetic waves are very similar to the waves or ripples formed by dropping a stone in a calm pool of water, for, just as the water waves travel in gradually widening circles from the splash, so the electric waves, started by the spark of a wireless transmitting or sending instrument, spread in ever-widening circles through the ether. Moreover, just as the waves in the pool are short and clear near the spot where the stone is thrown and gradually become longer and less noticeable and farther apart as they flow from the splash, so wireless waves are clearer and sharper near the instrument and become longer and less noticeable as they get farther and farther away and to draw still another comparison, just as the shore of the pool or any object in the water interrupts or breaks the waves, so a wireless receiving instrument will interrupt or receive the electrical waves of the ether. Indeed, just as the waves of vibrations set up by the wireless spark are electromagnetic waves and the energy that starts them is electrical energy, so the waves in the pool are started by muscular or mechanical energy. You can readily understand how it would be possible to communicate by means of such liquid waves, for if a person at a distance should toss stones into the water at stated intervals, a person watching the shore, and noticing the intervals of the waves, could understand signals which had been prearranged. This, of course, would be a very crude and inefficient method of communication, but if you could devise some instrument to count and measure the waves and could devise means for creating waves of definite sizes and numbers, a practical means of communication could be established. It is just this which occurs in the transmission and reception of electromagnetic or wireless waves, for by breaking or interrupting the waves sent out by the spark they are transformed into long and short sections which correspond to dots and dashes as used in wireless telegraphy. These waves set in motion by the sending apparatus, possess the property of starting oscillations in any conductor which they strike, and if they strike the aerial or antenna of a wireless station they start oscillations in the wires but so faint and weak that they would not be detected unless sensitive instruments were provided to magnify and catch them. Such instruments are known as detectors and consist of various substances or devices which are adjustable and from which wires lead to a telephone receiver. The high frequency oscillations of the ether, which are known as alternating currents, as they flow back and forth, are cut off by the magnets in the receiver, while the detector is designed to follow the oscillations to pass through in one direction, but will not allow them to return, and thus it acts as a check valve in a water pipe and the alternating, back-and-forth currents are transformed into impulses going in one direction only and known as direct currents. These direct currents are then received and cause the diaphragm to vibrate, and thus the ear detects the interrupted buzzing sounds which indicate the dots and dashes of the code. Another very important part of the mechanism of the wireless apparatus is the receiver, for without this the various vibrations of the ether sent out from numerous stations would come as a hodge-podge of meaningless sounds to the receiver. But by arranging the receiving instrument so it may be adjusted to receive or pick up only those waves of a certain length, all other vibrations and the messages they carry are eliminated or cut out. So, the wireless operator who is receiving messages, may adjust his instrument back and forth until he picks up any message which may be passing through the ether at the time.

BANK PREACHES THRIFT BY RADIO

If you happen to be within range of Dayton, O., you will soon hear something like this: "Save your nickels; save your dimes," etc. The City National bank of that city has installed a transmitting station. In addition to encouraging thrift the bank will broadcast regularly financial advice, quotations on local bond and stock issues, warnings of activities of bogus promoters and other information of value to the investor.

WHAT MAKES RADIO WORK?

Of the many explanations offered of the radiation pressure against the force of gravity, the most recent and most convincing is that it is the result of the fact that the radio waves travel from the transmitter to the receiver, new theory was given by Prof. J. A. Fleming, a well-known radio authority in England, before the Royal Society of Arts. His explanation was that there is a highly conducting layer in the upper regions of the atmosphere, in which the component gases are hydrogen and helium. The conductivity of this strata is probably due to electrified dust which comes to us from the sun, from which it is repelled by the radiation pressure against the force of gravity. This conductive layer guides the radio waves around the earth (and prevents them from escaping into space).

Making Connections.

Instead of soldering connections in the aerial, an ordinary clean splice joint can be made, covered with tin foil and then taped. This will keep out moisture and last a long time.

The American Legion

(Copy for This Department Supplied by The American Legion News Service)

REGARD FOR HEROES' WISHES

Judge Netter of Seattle Holds Request of Soldier Killed in War Demands First Consideration.

Is the last wish of a soldier dying on the field of battle more to be respected than legal forms decreed out with sealing wax? The American Legion thinks it is. Recent cases before the courts have brought the question to the front. According to Federal Judge Netter of Seattle, the wish of a soldier killed in battle is higher law than any departmental regulation. According to this decision Agnes Claffy, sixteen-year old niece of Clarence Swank, is awarded the residue of Swank's estate, amounting to $9,000. Swank was killed in France. Legitimate red tape cluttered up the case on account of the death of Swank's mother, the original beneficiary. In handing down his decision Judge Netter cited precedents extending back to the days of Caesar and the legions of ancient Rome.

The latest case is that of Miss Eleanor R. Knap of New York, whose claim to the estate of Ernest Charlton Mason of the One Hundred and Sixth United States Infantry has been contested by Mason's uncle. In a muddy dugout before a general advance against the Germans, Mason told his buddy, Oscar Westgate, the story of his engagement, and added that he now felt that in this advance he was slated to "go West." "I'll not come through this," he said, as they started over the top. "I want to have a little more life."

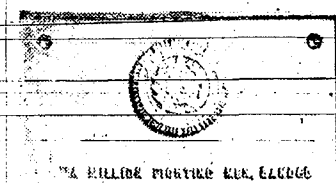

Mason, among others, was cut off and captured by the Germans. They were taken to the same prison camp. For ten days, a bunkie testified, Mason lay ill on the ground with influenza. Then he was taken away in an ambulance and his death reported. Eventually a death certificate was issued by the United States government. But the attorneys for Mason's uncle contested the case to the extent of arguing that the "proof of death" was unsatisfactory.

The justice of the soldier's latest wish has been upheld in startling fashion by the highest courts of England recently. An English major of infantry died alone in his lodgings in London directly after the armistice. He left no legal will. Across the front of a photograph of his fiancée he had lastly scrawled: "All to her." The case was brought before the highest tribunal of England and the "will" stood.

TABLET GRACES LEGION SHIP

Bronze Piece in Main Dining Saloon Engraved With Dedication by National Commander.

The steamship "American Legion" of the Munson lines, sailing between New York and Buenos Aires with an American Legion crew, now bears in its main dining saloon a bronze tablet.

"A BELLER FIGHTING FOR, LEGION, TOGETHER FOR GOD AND COUNTRY, HAVE CALLED THEMSELVES 'THE AMERICAN LEGION' BECAUSE THEY LEAD THEM TO THE FRONT LINE OF PROTECTING ACTS. LEGION, ARE FREE PEOPLE OF AGE. LEGION, AS LONG AS THIS REPUBLIC-LOVE BROCKE BEHOLDERS EYE SUCH TABLET."

JOHN G. BRYAN
NATIONAL COMMANDER
JULY 6, 1921

"American Legion" Steamship Tablet

engraved with a dedication signed by the national commander of the Legion. The formal presentation of the tablet was made in the presence of the New York and New Jersey officials of the Legion and two hundred guests.

Send Diseased Poultry to France.

The French government is delivering the French under the reparations agreements, according to French biologists. It was noticed that the poultry sent in from Germany soon died. Prompt inquiries on the dead fowls disclosed the cholera germ. The Paris Matin, one of the greatest French newspapers, calls for a government investigation.

Pending.

"Well, want to marry my daughter, I suppose?" snapped the grumpy millionaire as he glowered at the third youth. Adjusting his glasses he added: "By the way, aren't you one of my daughter's former suitors?"

"No sir," faltered the cheerless one. "I expect I soon will be." — American Legion Weekly.

Legion and Auxiliary Flowers.

The white American daisy has been adopted by the American Legion as its official flower after objections were raised to the Flanders poppy as a foreign flower and a possible pest in gardens and farms. The poppy has been adopted as its memorial flower by the Auxiliary, which has no official flower. It will not be brought into the country, but artificial poppies made by the ex-soldiers in hospitals were on sale on Memorial day all over the country for the benefit of the sick and wounded who made them.

COULD NOT HIT A LICK FOR MONTHS

Petersburg Resident Says She Had About Lost Hope of Getting Better—Now Well and Happy.

"Tanlac has been such a blessing to me I can't help singing its praises," said Mrs. T. J. Archer, highly esteemed resident of 1147 Shepard St., Petersburg, Va.

"I had indigestion so bad I couldn't eat a thing without being in misery for hours, and the pain around my heart caused by the gas seemed all I could stand. I constantly had headaches and awful spells of dizziness. Then to make matters worse rheumatism in my arms, shoulders and knees almost drove me to distraction, and for three months I couldn't do a stroke of work."

"I had just about decided it was no use to take any more medicine when my husband brought me a bottle of Tanlac. Now I never have a touch of indigestion. Headaches and dizzy spells are a thing of the past, and rheumatism has left me entirely. I never have known a medicine to equal Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Love sees no faults.

WORKING GIRLS LOOK HERE

Read What Mrs. Lucas Writes Concerning Her Troubles, Which May Be Just Like Yours

St. Louis, Mo. — "I had troubles that all women are apt to have, with pains in my back, weak, tired, nervous feelings and a weak stomach. I had been this way about a year and was unable to work or stand on my feet for any length of time. My husband's aunt had told me how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her and begged me to try it, so I did. All my pains and weakness are gone, my stomach is all right and I do my work at home and also work for Swift's Packing Company. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. LUCAS LUCAS, 719A Vandewater St., St. Louis, Mo.

Again and again our woman tells us what it did for her. Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial now.

Cuticura Soap Complexions Are Healthy

By No Means. She—Home is where the heart is. He—The heart is where the heart is. Surely homesickness.

Worry can almost always be worked off.

Help That Aching Back!

Is your back giving out? Are you tortured with backache and stabbing pains? Does any exertion leave you "all played out"? Feel you just can't keep going? Likely your kidneys are to blame. Overwork, strain, hurry, and worry tend to weaken the kidneys. Backache is often the first warning. Headaches and dizziness may come too, and annoying bladder irregularities. Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills—the remedy recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor!

A Michigan Case

Frank Frost, 514, 2nd St., Ludington, Mich., says: "I have been working hard and my back was so weak that I had to stop a few days. I took a few Doan's Kidney Pills and my back was all right again. I feel all right now and so weak I could hardly get around. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me entirely."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 50c a Box
DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOSTER-McMURDO CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

BETTER DEAD

Life is a burden when the body is racked with pain. Everything worries and the victim becomes despondent and downhearted. To bring back the sunshine take

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL

The National Remedy of Holland for over 200 years. It is a remedy for all ailments arising from kidney, liver and uric acid troubles. All druggists, three sizes. Look for the name Gold Medal on every box and accept no imitation.

TO KILL RATS

and MICE. Always use the genuine STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE. It is for the purpose of running the building for water and fresh air. Bats, mice, cockroaches, wasps and all other vermin and property and are destroyers of disease.

READY FOR USE—BETTER THAN TRAPS. Microscopic in size. 10c. also 25c. MONEY BACK IF IT FAILS.

Nash Leads the World in Motor Car Value

April is Greatest Nash Month

January, February and March started the breaking of records with a volume of sales that exceeded the same 1921 period by more than 51%.

Now comes April with the greatest single month's sales in all our history.

A reference to our records shows that it surpasses the best previous April by a clear 18% and completely overshadows even August, 1920, which till now held the honor of being our largest month.

The new Nash line includes twelve models: Four and six cylinders; open and closed; two, three, four, five, and seven passenger capacity; a price range from $965 to $2390, f. o. b. factory.

NASH

DOUGLAS & SCHOONOVER

Local Dealers.

Phone 911 or Address Grayling, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 18th day of August, A. D. 1920, executed by Floyd Denoyes, and Mable Denoyes, his wife, of the Village of Grayling, County of Crawford, State of Michigan, to Anthony Trudeau, Sr., of the same place, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the County of Crawford and State of Michigan in Liber I of Mortgages on pages 275 and 277 on the 17th day of August, A. D. 1920 at one o'clock p. m.

And whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of three hundred ninety one and 84-100 ($391.84) dollars of principal and interest, and the further sum of thirty ($30.00) dollars as an attorney fee stipulated for in said mortgage, and which is the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law or in equity to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the court house in the Village of Grayling, in said County of Crawford, on the 3rd day of August, A. D. 1922, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which said premises are described as follows, to-wit:

All that certain piece or parcel of land situate and being in the Village of Grayling, County of Crawford, and State of Michigan, described as Lot Nine, of Block Thirteen of Hadley's Second Addition to the Village of Grayling, according to the record plat thereof.

Dated May 3rd, 1922.
Anthony Trudeau, Mortgagee.

Homer L. Fitch,
Attorney for Mortgagee,
Business Address:
Grayling, Mich.
5-4-13.

MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, dated the 5th day of March, 1906, executed by Fred Sholts and Belle Sholts his wife, to Eliza J. Brott, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Crawford County, Michigan, in Liber B of mortgages on page 516, in Liber B of mortgages on page 516, on March 5, 1906, and which said mortgage was assigned by Eliza J. Brott, to William H. Wallace on February 21, 1910 and which assignment is recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Crawford County, Michigan, in Liber G of mortgages on page 633, on March 28, 1910.

And whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is $197.92 principal and interest and the further sum of $25.00 attorney fee as provided for in said mortgage and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law or in equity to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale and in pursuance to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the court house in the Village of Grayling, Crawford County, Michigan, on July 25, 1922, at one o'clock in the afternoon, which premises are described as follows:

The east half of the southeast quarter of section twenty, in township twenty-five, north range three west, excepting one acre off the southeast corner used for school purposes, Beaver Creek Township, Crawford County, Michigan.
Dated April 25, 1922.

William H. Wallace,
Assignee of Mortgage.
Merle F. Nallist,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.
Business address,
Mio, Michigan.
4-27-13

RECOMMENDS CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

"Chamberlain's Tablets have been used by my husband and myself off and on for the past five years. When my husband goes away from home he always takes a bottle of them along with him. Whenever I have the heavy feeling after eating, or feel dull and played out, I take one or two of Chamberlain's Tablets and they fix me up fine," writes Mrs. Newton Yreland, Minn. N. Y. Take these tablets when troubled with constipation or indigestion and they will do you good.

Children's sandals, skuffers, Mary James and oxfords at special prices, at E. J. Olson's.

See the latest line of wedding invitations and announcements, at the Avalanche office.

DIRECTORY

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL

PROBATE COURT

Crawford County, Mich.
Sessions: First and Third Monday of every month.
Hours: 9 o'clock a. m. to 12 noon.
1 o'clock p. m. to 5 o'clock p. m.
Any information and first proceedings in connection with this Court will be had at my office at Sorenson Bros.
GEORGE SORENSON
Judge of Probate.

BANK OF GRAYLING

Successor to Crawford County Exchange Bank.
MARIUS HANSON Proprietor.
Interest paid on certificates of deposit. Collections promptly attended to. All accommodations extended that are consistent with safe and conservative banking.
Marius Hanson, Cashier.

O. PALMER

Office in Avalanche Building.

Drs. Keyport & Howell
PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS
Office next to Peterson's Jewelry Store.

Special attention to Eye refraction.
Office Hours 2-4, 7-8 p. m. Sundays by appointments.

C. A. Canfield, D. D. S.
DENTIST
OFFICE:
over Alexander's Law Office on Michigan Avenue.

Office hours: 8:30 a. m. 1-3:30 p. m.

Dr. J. J. Love

DENTIST
Phone 1271
Hours: 9 to 11:30 a. m., 1 to 5 p. m.
Office: Over Simpson Co.'s grocery.

C. J. HATHAWAY
OPTOMETRIST

Suite 223-224, American Bank Bldg.
Pontiac, Mich.
Office hours 8:30 to 12:00; 1 to 5 p. m.; and by appointment. Phone 267.

Practice confined exclusively to refraction of the eyes.

HOMER L. FITCH
Prosecuting Attorney
Crawford County
General Practice

Surety Bonds. Insurance.

KELSDEN & KELSDEN

Mondays and Wednesdays from 2:30 to 9:00 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, Thursdays and Friday all day.
Over Salling Hanson Co.
Hardware Store.

Licensed Chiropractors Examination and Consultation Free

Hendrickson Bros.

Men's Fine Tailoring
Suits and Overcoats to Order
Phone 614.

Open 8:00 a. m. to 7:00 p. m.
SOUTH SIDE.

TUTTLE'S SWEDISH

BATH HOUSE
425 North Main Street

Electric Light and Gas Heated Sweat Baths, Electric and Swedish Massage, Salt Rubs, Gymnastics and Galvanic Baths.

Treatments for Nervousness, Stiff Joints, Lumbago, Pleurisy, Sciatica and Inflammatory Rheumatism.
For Ladies and Gentlemen.
Treatments $2.00 Each.

CHEBOYGAN, MICH.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County, ss.
Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm has on file and for each ONE HUNDRED DOLLAR the sum of and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of CHAMBERLAIN'S CATARRH MEDICINE. He subscribes and is subscribed in my presence, this 1st day of December, A. D. 1922.
(Seal) Notary Public.
(Seal) Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts through the system. Send for testimonials and free information. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists, etc.
Wall's Family Pills for constipation

FARM BUREAU NOTES.

Continued from first page.

ago, Michigan.

Those counties run almost exclusively to Holsteins. So much, that when anyone, in any part of the United States wishes to make up a carload of choice animals to equip some new farm, they go right to those places, for the buyer knows that he will have large numbers to pick from and can find what he wants.

Same with Waukesha, Wisconsin, for Guernseys.
Same with Delaware County, Ohio, for Percheron horses.

Where Would You Look To-day?
Where would you look to-day in Northern Michigan for a few head of good cows?
We have few, if any neighborhoods, producing them in selling quantities. I know several people in Crawford County who wish to buy really good cows, and cannot find them. They will have to be satisfied with the scrub stock of the county or go to the vicinity of Saginaw, Vassar, Mt. Pleasant or Howell.

Dead and Gone.
You and I will be dead and gone before Crawford County will have too many registered purebreds; or, even high grades.
The county itself can absorb several thousand, and could sell several thousand to outside buyers.

Keep Right On.
Keep right on brother in your spirit to improve. There will be plenty who will tell you that you are headed straight for financial ruin, or that you got exactly the wrong kind of cattle.

Let 'em holler, brother; let 'em holler.

Felt Better.

In the summer of 1919 I was back to that part of Vermont where my ancestors were living before the Revolution, or before Washington's time.

One fine, progressive man, who had lived there but a few years, had launched out courageously and had 26 registered pure-bred Holstein cows, and a lot of pure-bred calves and heifers; and, of course, was away ahead of his neighbors, who had been hesitating or debating for the last hundred years whether to get a purebred bull or not; or going without one. Mind you, this is strictly a dairy community and has been for 150 years.

For Mr. Roberts to come in there and flash a purchased head before their eyes was as intolerable as it would be were you to build a neat little bungalow, with running hot and cold water, lighting system among the aquid cabins of the poor whites of the South.

When I went back in 1921 and found that Mr. Roberts had had an auction and sold some of his blue-blooded cows, and had replaced them with some not so good, for he had bit of too big a chunk to chew at one time; great was the rejoicing among the do nothings, for now, he who had dared to try to do something was back to their level, and they felt better.

Eating Him Back.

The same spirit of jealousy, and a desire to trip up anyone who tried to do anything better than they is found in places among us.

Down South, among the negroes it is said, that when one, by thrift and diligence, got ahead of his friends and relatives, they would go to visit him and "eat him back" until he was as poor again as the rest. Then they felt better.

In some people's opinion, no one should try to do anything progressive or better than his neighbors.

The State Fair.
Aren't you going to take especial pains with something on your farm this year, and have it ready for the State Fair?
You wish to be fair about this, don't you, and do your share?

Capt. Stevens' Aerial Photographs.
Drops 24,206 Feet to Safety.

Dayton, O.: Captain A. W. Stevens, aerial photographer, McCook Field, established a new parachute jumping record Monday when he descended 24,206 feet to safety. Another record was broken at the same time when Lieutenant Leigh Wade piloted a twin-motored Martin bomber, carrying three passengers to an altitude of 24,206 feet, it was announced.

Captain Stevens ascended in the same plane with Lieutenant Wade.

The pilot, accompanied by Stevens and Sergeant Roy Langham, observed, took off at 11 a. m. and reached the maximum altitude at 1:05 p. m., requiring two hours and five minutes to make the climb.

GAS WILL BE USED, SAYS SIMS

Naval Officer Declares Chemical Warfare Is Not Inhuman.

Albany, N. Y.—"You can bet your life that if we have another war and if we're attacked we'll use gas," said Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., Monday night at the annual dinner of the Albany Medical College.

Albany association, "if we are attacked we will use gas," he continued, "and we won't care how, when or why."

Gas, he declared, is not the inhuman method of warfare that it generally is believed to be. The general impression that the use of gas was so inhuman, he said, was caused by Allied propaganda because the Germans were using it.

Boy Wanted

Somewhere in this town is one boy who is a "go-getter" spirit, full of grit and ambition, and absolutely honest. We want that boy. He will be the only boy agent in this town for the famous MOVIE WEEKLY MAGAZINE. He will work after school and other spare time. His pay will be what he makes it; besides fine prizes and free movie tickets. When he makes good, he will be promoted. If you are between 14 and 19 years old, determined to "make good" and truly think you are the boy for this job, then apply by letter to Mr. E. L. Gilbert, "Personal," 3rd floor, 119 West 40th Street, New York City. Give full details of any past selling experience; your age; parent's full name and business; your school grade and at least two references.

PROBATE NOTICE

State of Michigan,
The Probate Court for the County of Crawford.

At a session of said Court, held at the probate office in the Village of Grayling, in said county, on the 6th day of June A. D. 1922.

Present: Hon. George Sorenson, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Sarah J. Corwin, deceased.

Charles Corwin, having filed his petition, praying that an instrument filed in said Court be admitted to Probate as the last will and testament of said deceased and that administration and settlement of said estate be granted to said Charles Corwin or some other suitable person.

It is ordered, that the 26th day of June A. D. 1922, at ten A. M., at said Probate Office is hereby appointed for hearing said petition.

It is further ordered, that public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, for three consecutive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Crawford Avalanche newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

George Sorenson,
Judge of Probate.

NOTICE

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of money secured by a mortgage dated the seventh day of December A. D. 1904, executed by George Mahon and Nettie Mahon, his wife, then of the Village of Grayling, County of Crawford and State of Michigan, to Marius Hanson of the same place, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds in the County of Crawford and State of Michigan in Liber E of Mortgages on pages 568 and 569 on the eighth day of September A. D. 1905 at twelve o'clock M.

And Whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of Three hundred forty six and 96-100ths dollars and the further sum of fifteen dollars, as statutory attorney fee, and which is the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law or in equity to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given: that by virtue of the said power of sale in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the court house in the Village of Grayling in said County of Crawford, that being the place wherein is held the Circuit Court for the County of Crawford, on the seventeenth day of June, A. D. 1922 at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which said premises are described as follows, to-wit:

All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate and being in the Village of Grayling, in the County of Crawford and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to-wit: Lots Five and Six of Block Eight of Hadley's Second Addition to the Village of Grayling, Michigan, according to the record plat thereof.

Dated June 21st 1922.
Geo. I. Alexander, Marius Hanson, Mortgagee.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

Every family should keep this preparation at hand during the hot of the summer months. It is almost sure to be needed, and when that time comes, is worth many times its cost. Buy it now.

For PHONE For Pure Ice 1322 Service

COUPON SYSTEM
OUR SERVICE IS THE BEST.
Keep your foods sweet and fresh by placing your order with GRAYLING ICE CO.
Your Patronage greatly appreciated.

Indigestion

DO YOU KNOW that indigestion can be cured, permanently cured, so that you can eat any kind of food that you crave? It has been done not only once, but in almost every case when Chamberlain's Tablets are used. An instance: Mr. J. Pomerville, Stillwater, Minn., who had spent over $2,000.00 for medicine and treatment was permanently cured by these tablets.

Chamberlain's Tablets